

NEW YORK.—To appreciate America, go abroad. It needs European eyes to appreciate New York as the most stupendously imposing city on earth. To the American eye, it is merely the supreme example of the common type. Every small town now sprouts its skyscrapers, and New York differs only in having more and bigger ones. But the European eye sees this American type first in its huxest model. "Those are not buildings; they are mountains," said a newcomer on the way up the harbor. In all the world there is nothing of human construction quite so impressive as the sky line of New York City.

THIS is not to say that there is anything at this time in New York as beautiful as the few finest things which the ages have bequeathed to other lands—though the new Cathedral of St. John the Divine bids fair to meet even this lack. And of course there can be nothing as eloquent with the memories and the mystery of centuries. But any one of New York's great buildings, if it were a thousand years old, and were the only one left, would rank with the Pyramids among the wonders of the world. Doubtless the proudest shopping street in the world is the rue de la Paix in Paris. Any one of a hundred New York buildings could contain the whole rue de la Paix, every shop, room and garret in it, and have plenty of space to spare. And everything you can buy on the rue de la Paix, plus all the other precious things you searched Europe for, can be found, in better assortment, within five minutes of the room where this is written.

THE mere cult of bigness," it is the fashion, superciliously, to say. But, in the first place, it is not. As much architectural intelligence and beauty has been put into the newer American skyscrapers as has ever put into any business building in the world—or for that matter, into any other buildings except the few inspired outbursts of genius. And in the second place—since when did bigness become a thing of scorn? Not in the Pyramids, certainly; nor in the Colossus of Rhodes. Not in St. Peter's, or the Colonnade Cathedral. The things which each generation did, whether in bigness or new wealth, become aristocratic only in the pride of its heirs. Seeing with their later eyes, we may well look on the present as one of the three or four great building epochs of the world. And it is the American period.

IT is not in visible structures alone. It is people and institutions. New York, for instance, is a European city in its human make-up. Nearly all its inhabitants are recent European immigrants, or their children. Many of these, poor and ignorant when they came, are still poor and ignorant, and live in slums. One must have been recently in the countries of their origin to realize how enormous is the advance, even for these. And the opportunities for improvement, and the number who have taken advantage of them, are beyond all comparison, in the world.

THIS at the mere portal of a vast continent. Entering it, past the much-debated but still significant statue of Liberty, one throws his passport and identity card into the bottom of his luggage, as souvenirs. He plans to travel clear across that continent, without one official to ask him, or to care, who he is or what he is doing. He will need only his ticket, for trains, and the price of his hotel bills. And more people have that, in America, than anywhere else. All across the continental expanse, people will speak the same language, be interested in the same things and have common feelings, loyalty and confidence. There will be more people of the highest training and culture, and fewer on the lower levels of ignorance, than in all the rest of the world. There will be things to regret— injustice, poverty, socialism, selfishness, crudities, and unsolved problems—but no other equal area has so few of them. There is no prejudice and intolerant standardization, false pretense, political corruption and demagoguery, and sometimes only the external semblance of democracy. But all these evils exist in greater degree elsewhere; only in America is the general attitude toward them one of justified optimism.

MERE Fourth-of-July flag-waving has gone properly out of date, as suitably only to the exuberance of small boys of all ages. Life has become too serious, in this war-shocked world, for anything so shallow and superficial. Boasting and boasting are still less in order. America has a great responsibility, which should be met, not proudly, but humbly and devoutly. Unless America maintains it, all that Western civilization has inherited from three thousand years of progress is still in jeopardy. So great a responsibility can not be met by skyscrapers, bathtubs, and oratorical platitudes alone. Our prosperity and our material equipment are tools to work with. If, instead, we allow them to dominate us, we shall be slaves to a dead and soulless master. But, even realizing all this, no one can return from a sympathetic and appreciative trip to other lands and peoples without thanking God for America.

Sanity of Mrs. Wiseman Is Challenged

COURT HOLDS THAT WOMAN MAY TESTIFY

Mrs. McPherson's Lawyer Claims Co-Defendant Was In Utah Insane Asylum

RANSOM NOTE MISSING

$500,000 Letter Believed Stolen From Files of L. A. Police Department

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 11.—Charges that Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, chief state's witness, is insane and incompetent to testify, were hurled by defense counsel today at the hearing of Aimee Semple McPherson.

W. I. Gilbert, attorney for the evangelist, who is accused of conspiring to defeat justice, declared that the witness was at one time an inmate of a Utah asylum and that her testimony was, therefore, inadmissible.

After nearly an hour of wrangling between opposing counsel, Judge Samuel Blake decided that Mrs. Wiseman's testimony could be admitted, inasmuch as she was a co-defendant in the case, and was not strictly a witness.

Admits Being in Asylum

Mrs. Wiseman admitted under cross-examination that she had been confined in the Utah asylum.

"Yes, I was placed in the institution in the county of Weber, Utah state," she said, "but I was placed there for the crime of another and I only remained there two months."

The certificate of insanity showed that Mrs. Wiseman had been committed to the Utah asylum by an affidavit of her sister, Mrs. Virgil Lee Kimball, which said: "I believe that she is insane and a fit subject for care and treatment in the state mental hospital."

Keyes Reads Affidavit

After the court had ruled on the testimony of Mrs. Wiseman, District Attorney Asa Keyes read into the record a lengthy affidavit by the witness, in which she asserted that it was her sister, a "Miss X," and not the evangelist, who was shot by Mrs. Pearl Souza, after an argument over the destruction of Mrs. Enos' flower bed by Mrs. Souza's sheep, is improved today, according to hospital attendants.

Both women are mothers. Mrs. Souza is being held in the county jail here, but no charge has been filed against her yet.

According to authorities, she pleaded her act was in self-defense, claiming she shot after Mrs. Enos threatened her with a hatchet.

CONSTANCE QUITS HUSBAND; SPEEDS BACK TO HOLLYWOOD

Actress Prefers Career, And Leaves ex-Officer In British Army

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—After seven months, Constance Talmadge's second marriage venture had come to at least a temporary ending, her friends here said today, after they revealed that Constance was on a train speeding back to Hollywood and the movies.

Her husband, Capt. Alastair William McIntosh, former British army officer, was variously reported in seclusion in this country and en route to Europe.

With Constance and her husband it was the old story, friends said, of a wife's desire for a career and a husband's desire for his wife's undivided attention, coming into conflict.

Constance, it appeared, wanted to continue her work in the movies, feeling she might, so to speak, still greater heights in her chosen art. McIntosh objected.

McIntosh is Constance's second husband. Her first was John Piatlogou, tobacco dealer and manufacturer, and their romance came face to face with the same conflict and ended in divorce.

It was explained today by intimates of Constance that the separation is "entirely friendly" and if there is a divorce to follow, it will be the same.

PINCHOT IN ADDRESS AT LEGION MEET

Governor Says War Vets Must Fight Attempts to Buy and Steal Elections

80,000 IN QUAKER CITY

Greetings from Coolidge To Former Service Men Read at Opening Session

(By United Press)
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 11.—The American Legion must wage a peace-time war against cunning efforts to "buy and steal" elections, Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, told the eighth annual convention of the Legion, at its opening session here today.

After a message had been read from President Coolidge, urging that the Legion arouse citizens to vote, Pinchot, in his address of welcome, launched an attack upon ballot frauds, mentioning the Pennsylvania and Illinois primaries as outstanding examples.

The strains of "Hinky Dinky Parley Voo" echoed through the streets of Philadelphia, as upwards of 80,000 young World War veterans trod the steps of their revolutionary ancestors at the opening of the convention.

Top Sergeant and General

The tough top sergeant, who was nipped in the knee at the Meuse; the chaplain, who prayed over a thousand dead on the battlefield of France; the general, who sat at headquarters issuing orders; the demure Salvation Army girls and the boys who fought the successful, if indecisive battle of Paris—they all were here, where the Liberty Bell first was rung, for their eighth reunion.

It was the same colorful Legion convention of years past, with its dramatic background of days when life was a matter of chance and glory rose up out of the mud of France.

At the formal session, there were only two questions of prime importance—whether the Legion will go to Paris for its convention next year, despite recent anti-American agitation abroad, and whether it will draft Gen. John J. Pershing as its general, the general's wishes, the average delegate here thinks that, when all the official display has settled down later in the week, the Legion will do both.

Pershing May Be Drafted

Pershing has indicated a disinclination to serve, but there were department groups in full sympathy with the District of Columbia Legion department, in its intention to Pershing the unanimous choice of the convention, despite his wishes. The half dozen active candidates for the commandship have privately agreed to withdraw, in case the convention decides in the end that Pershing should be the choice. The election will be held Friday and nothing definite has been decided yet.

The first session was largely formal, the national chaplain, the Rev. William E. Patrick, offering an opening prayer; the singing of the Star Spangled Banner; addresses of welcome by Governor Pinchot, Mayor Kendrick, Past Pennsylvania Commander Lucius McKrumbine; a response by Gen. Wilder S. Metcalf; presentation of a gavel by the Nebraska department; and preliminary organization work.

Greetings From Auxiliary

Greetings were delivered by Mrs. Elizabeth London Sheppard, national president of the Legion auxiliary, Los Angeles, and Stanley M. Doyle, Glendive, Mont., head of the Forty and Eight.

The time and place committee, which later to determine whether the convention should go to Paris next year, will be appointed and begin deliberations behind closed doors. A decision is not expected before tomorrow.

Until these questions are decided, the delegates rehearse the times of France. There are five policemen stationed at each corner along Broad street, but Legionnaires said it was the quietest convention they have seen in seven years past.

So far, no M. P.'s have been needed.

Deny Review Of Smelting Patent Case

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—The U. S. supreme court today denied the American Smelting and Refining company a review of the patent infringement judgment, said to involve $20,000,000, won by George Campbell Carson, California, "desert rat" surveyor.

The company charged that Carson, after winning his suit, attempted to substitute the Carson Investment company as recipient of proceeds from the accounting ordered by the court.

It also charged that the title to the two blast furnace patents in question was not in the hands of Carson in whose name the suit was brought.

VOTE 6 TO 6 ON FORMER CABINET MAN

Final Ballot Stands 10 to 2 for Miller Conviction On Government Charges

JURORS TURNED LOOSE

Discharged by Court After Effort of More than 65 Hours to Reach Verdict

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—The jury in the Harry M. Daugherty-Thomas W. Miller conspiracy case today reported disagreement to the court and was discharged. The jury had been out 65 hours and 40 minutes.

The case involved charges that Daugherty, former attorney general under President Harding, and Miller, former alien property custodian, had received a share of $441,000, which Richard Merton said he paid the late John T. King as a "fee" for securing return to German and Swiss interests of $7,000,000 assets of the American Metal company, seized by the government during the war.

Ask More Instructions

The jury retired at 9:45 p. m., Friday. Many times the jury communicated with the judge, asking information on various points and once receiving lengthy additional instructions. At 10 a. m. today, it returned to the court to resume deliberations.

There was much coming and going of ballots from the jury room to the judge's chambers, indicating that the jury still was making a determined effort to reach a verdict.

At 3:20 p. m., there was communication between Judge Mack and the jury, the first since it went to lunch, and a few minutes later the corridor leading to the jury room was ordered cleared.

Then a bailiff was summoned to the jury room and he carried a more formal note to the judge. Just before 3:30 p. m., the juryman filed solemnly into the courtroom and took their accustomed seats in the jury box.

Defendants With Lawyers

Daugherty and Miller were at the defendants' table with their lawyers.

When the court came formally into session, the jury delivered its report.

"Were you able to agree on either defendant?" the court asked.

The answer was in the negative. After court adjourned, a juror told the United Press the final vote was 6 to 6 on Daugherty's and 10 to 2 for conviction on Miller's charges.

Judge Mack spoke briefly, thanking the jurors for their services and adding that he would order them excused for a period of five years from further jury duty.

Two Show No Emotion

Col. William T. Rood, attorney for Miller, and U. S. Attorney Buckner expressed to the jurors their thanks, but Mex Steuer, attorney for Daugherty remained silent, sitting beside his client, his head resting on his hand. Neither Miller nor Daugherty showed the slightest emotion when the announcement was made, Miller looking blankly into space. Daugherty sat hunched in his black overcoat.

Mrs. Miller remained quietly in her chair, gazing straight ahead. When court adjourned, Miller arose from his seat, but hardly looked toward his wife, who remained seated.

A friend rushed up to Miller to offer her congratulations.

"I don't want to shake hands with anyone," Miller snapped and refused the proffered handshakes.

Daugherty Disappointed

"I am terribly disappointed," Daugherty told the United Press. "I expected to be acquitted."

"Right now, I'm going to have my eye fixed up, take a walk around the block, consult my attorney and then I'm going to leave tonight for Columbus."

Miller said he would go with Mrs. Miller to his home at Wilmington, Del., tonight, and tomorrow would go to Philadelphia to attend the American Legion convention.

"I'm too deeply moved to say anything," Mrs. Miller told the United Press correspondent.

Buckner said he probably would take the 30 days allowed by law to decide whether the case would be called for a second trial.

"It is not best to rush into such things hastily," he said.

The court room was kept locked while the jury was making its report.

DAUGHERTY, MILLER TO BE SUBPOENAED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 11.—Harry M. Daugherty and Thomas Miller, who failed to testify in their trial in New York on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government, will be subpoenaed and compelled to testify before Senator Borah's senate committee, investigating alien property, under plans made by Borah today.

"Members of the American Federation of Labor be not afraid," Dr. Wise declared, "for men in every city in the land are resolved that the church shall not be chiefly the Sunday clubs of the foes of organized labor."

They were hanged together, James under his alias of Willie Adams to T. O. Dierks, funeral director.

Dierks arrived for the body shortly after the receipt of the telegram, and carried it to San Francisco, to prepare for shipment to Melrose.

The elder Adams is believed to have made definite identification of the dead youth from prison authorities.

BATTLE LOOMS IN EDUCATION BOARD

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 11.—Lines were drawn up for a battle royal within the ranks of the state board of education here today, as the board met to reorganize and hold a six-day session.

War between Gov. Friend W. Richardson, as represented by his appointees on the board, and Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, over Wood's contention that politics had been injected into state educational control, was destined to break out anew as the session opened.

Preceding the opening of the session today, Wood fired an opening broadside at the governor for the governor's recent appointment of F. J. O'Brien, Chico editor, to a new four-year term, caused by expiration of the term of E. P. Clarke, of Riverdale. Richardson, Wood insisted, was attempting to "project his destructive politics into another administration."

POLICE SQUADS HUNT GANG OF AUTO BANDITS

Outlaws Slay One Man in Bay City and Shoot Three Others

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—The death toll of Saturday night's reign of terror by a gang of robbers and killers increased to two today, with the death of Mario Begenev, proprietor of a soft drink parlor. Begenev, was shot through the abdomen when he gave the robbers only $80. Mario Pagana was killed instantly when the bandits held him up and he struggled with them.

(By United Press)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Police squads of San Francisco and Sacramento today combed city and outlying districts, in search for a gang of automobile bandits, which has engaged in a two-day reign of terror.

The gunmen began their operations in San Francisco early Sunday with the murder of one man, the shooting of three others, assault of another trio and the kidnapping of a woman.

Mario Pagana was killed when he resisted the efforts of the gang to hold him up.

The gang, variously reported as composed of two and more members, next visited a pool hall. Meeting resistance, they fired several shots and three were effected, wounding three men.

With about $400 in cash and an equal amount in jewelry, the band sped a few blocks distant and stopped to force Mrs. Emma Bird into their automobile. A short distance farther, they threw her to the pavement. They remarked they did not "like your looks." The gang then dropped from sight. The stolen automobile in which the men had operated later was found abandoned.

While police continued fruitless search, bandits believed to be of the same gang, began a similar drive in Sacramento. Early today, a youthful pair of gunmen was reported to have held up four Sacramento citizens, threatening one with violence.

All the holdups took place in downtown Sacramento within a few blocks of one another.

Fresno, with two wins, needs but one more to clinch the cup. Pasadena has won once.

300 PERSONS ARE RENDERED HOMELESS BY ALASKA FIRE

(By United Press)
JUNEAU, Alaska, Oct. 11.—More than 300 persons were homeless today as a result of a fire, which swept Douglas and Treadwell.

One hundred and fifty Indian homes were burned and 42 white families made homeless. The local Red Cross announced it was able to provide housing facilities for the victims.

The fire was fanned by a heavy wind and, before volunteers could bring it under control, it had spread from the Indian section on the beach to the famous Treadwell district.

Every home on the beach and on St. Ann's avenue was wiped out. The Congregational and Catholic churches, the St. Ann's hospital, the stamp mill, and store building of the Treadwell company were destroyed and the houses of company officials burned.

PORTION OF COAST HIGHWAY FROM LAGUNA TO LONG BEACH IS OPENED BY MARY PICKFORD AND DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS

Thousands Gather to View Ceremony Presided Over By Film Stars

Thousands of persons from all sections of Southern California gathered on the hillsides at Laguna Beach Saturday to see Douglas Fairbanks and Mary Pickford, motion picture stars, assist nine coast cities celebrate the opening of the $200,000 highway from Laguna Beach to Newport Beach, constituting a new link on the coast route. The newly opened section of the coast highway is one of the most beautiful drives on the coast boulevard and connects Laguna Beach with other coast cities and with Los Angeles.

Nelson T. Edwards, state highway commissioner, and members of the county board of supervisors also assisted in the celebration. The coast cities united in celebrating the opening of the road with an allegorical portrayal, which showed the progress of beach communities and predicted the prosperity to come to Orange county beaches.

The main part of the pageant was presented in Laguna Beach. Mary Pickford, occupying a throne in the center of the road, was "Miss Prosperity" and it was to her that an appeal was made by the beach towns that the highway be opened.

Mayors Sign Petition
Early Saturday morning, Miss Marjorie Gowan, official representative of Laguna Beach, traveled to Long Beach, where "Miss Laguna Beach" presented a petition to Mayor Filmore Condit for his signature. The petition asked that Laguna Beach be joined to the chain of prosperous beach communities. From Long Beach a caravan traveled to Seal Beach where the signature of the mayor of the town was secured. A. W. Armstrong was the acting mayor in Seal Beach. A delegation from Seal Beach, including Miss Norma Barracough, "Miss Seal Beach," joined the caravan. Miss Marjorie

V. Robinson, "Miss Long Beach," also was a member of the caravan. The caravan proceeded to Sunset Beach, Huntington Beach and Newport Beach, where the same proceedings were followed. In Sunset Beach, J. A. Armitage was the acting mayor and Miss Collette Dean, was the official representative of the city. In Huntington Beach, J. W. Mitchell signed the important document as the acting mayor of the town and Miss Ella Jean Thedieck joined the caravan as "Miss Huntington Beach."

In Newport Beach, Mayor Conrad Richter welcomed the caravan and Miss Marjorie Greeley, as "Miss Newport Beach," and Miss Mary Beek, as "Miss Balboa," joined the parade.

From Newport Beach the caravan traveled to Laguna Beach. "Miss Laguna Beach" then presented the petition to Miss Pickford. She, in turn, asked the approval of Nelson T. Edwards, state highway commissioner, and T. B. Talbert, chairman of the board of supervisors. Both responded with talks in which they recommended the opening of the road and pictured the coming prosperity of the coast area. "Miss Prosperity" then commanded. Douglas Fairbanks, who was dressed as a blacksmith, to forge the connecting link between the coast towns. More than 100 Laguna Beach school children formed the links in the chain. The tiny "misses" who represented the coast cities to the west gathered to the west. "Miss Laguna Beach" was on the east and Douglas Fairbanks welded the chain. Mary Pickford then declared the road opened.

The Rev. Percy W. Clarkson delivered an address of welcome, picturing the future prosperity of Laguna Beach in his address. Following the address a banquet was served in the White House cafe, Laguna Beach, in honor of the motion picture stars and the highway officials who were present. George Jeffrey, supervisor from the fifth district, acted as marshal of the day.

Funeral Rites Conducted for Tragedy Victim

Homer Y. Wauson, 3, one of the two victims in the Pacific Electric trestle tragedy at Seal Beach, Sunday, October 3, was buried in the Midway City cemetery Saturday afternoon, following an inquest in the Harrell Undertaking parlors, in Huntington Beach.

The body was washed up on the beach Friday night and was found by George Green, road foreman.

The coroner's verdict was the same as returned in the case of Adrian Wauson, who was drowned at the same time. The verdict was to the effect that the child came to his death after being knocked from the bridge and that the accident might have been averted had the electric car been operated in a careful manner.

J. E. Hoover, motorman on the car, will have his preliminary hearing on a manslaughter charge at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning in Seal Beach.

Broken Finger
How helpless the municipality of the District of Columbia is to do a thing for itself without the royal permission of Congress is illustrated by a little mishap which has occurred to the Lincoln statue in front of the building of the District Supreme court. This is a small, full-length affair which for years posed ridiculously on a tall pedestal in front of the dilapidated old building. The courthouse then was restored, and the Lincoln statue was moved and given a cleaning and a place more befitting its gentle dignity. It represents the Emancipator in the act of making an address, with the left arm behind him, the right extended, with the hand turned outward, as if in appeal to his audience. A short time ago vandals, or some other force, broke off the end of the index finger, thus impairing the effect intended by the sculptor—now it will take an act of congress to repair the damage.

CHALLENGE SANITY OF MRS. WISEMAN

and regarding as important state's evidence, was missing today, as the hearing of the evangelist on charges of obstructing justice was resumed.

Authorities expressed the belief the missive had been stolen from the police department files, where it was being held under lock and key. The theft was discovered when District Attorney Asa Keyes ordered the letter produced for presentation in court.

The ransom note was to be used by the state in its effort to prove that Mrs. McPherson's disappearance was part of a scheme to obtain $500,000 from Angelus temple followers. The prosecution claims that the ransom letter was part of a conspiracy to secure $500,000 for payment to mythical kidnappers.

Have Photostatic Copies
Chief of Detectives Herman Cline informed the district attorney that photostatic copies of the original letter had been made: this may serve the state's purposes.

The letter was mailed in San Francisco, on May 24, six days after Mrs. McPherson disappeared while swimming in the surf at Ocean Park, and was received by the evangelist's mother, at Angelus temple, the next day.

The letter was signed "Avengers," and demanded $500,000 immediately for the safe return of Mrs. McPherson. The prosecution claims the handwriting resembled that of Ormiston, fugitive co-defendant and alleged companion of the evangelist during her disappearance.

The radio operator made a hurried trip to San Francisco from Carmel-by-the-Sea, on May 24, it is claimed by state's investigators. Loss of the ransom letter is the second time important documentary evidence in the McPherson case has disappeared. During the grand jury investigation of the evangelist's self-related story of kidnapping, a pair of grocery slips, found in a cottage at Carmel, allegedly in Mrs. McPherson's handwriting, disappeared. The state contends that one of the grand jurors, a woman sympathizer, destroyed this evidence.

Bernice Morris to Testify
An important state witness to be heard this week is Miss Bernice Morris, secretary to the late R. A. McKinley, blind Long Beach attorney. McKinley, the state alleges, was hired by Mrs. McPherson to produce fake kidnappers to substantiate the story of her disappearance.

The state expects also to call Harry D. Hallebeck, Yuma, Ariz., rancher, and former construction expert at Angelus temple, concerning the whereabouts of Mrs. McPherson prior to her dramatic reappearance at Agua Prieta, Mex., after her self-described escape from kidnappers.

Hallebeck, shortly after the reappearance of the evangelist, was quizzed by the grand jury here concerning his reported connection with Mrs. McPherson's disappearance. At that time he denied any knowledge of the case, and declared he was in Los Angeles at the time of his asserted presence in the vicinity of Agua Prieta.

Asks Confidence Expression
Mrs. McPherson, in her Sunday services at Angelus temple, asked for a million signatures to printed cards expressing confidence in her "integrity and moral character." Members of the Ku Klux Klan were specifically appealed to by the evangelist.

"Wouldn't it be nice if we could get a million of these cards signed?" the revivalist asked her congregation.

"I wish you all would take some of these cards and get them distributed. Some of you belong to lodges—the Klan. You take several hundred cards with you and get them signed."

The tabernacle was filled with the usual Sunday throng of enthusiastic worshippers.

DENIES DRAWING ORMISTON AFFIDAVIT
CHICAGO, Oct. 11.—Attorney H. S. Edward Martin today denied that he drew up the "Kenneth Ormiston affidavit of exoneration for Almee Semple McPherson," at the request of Mrs. McPherson.

Martin said his statement was issued in response to dispatches from the coast, which he said stated that District Attorney Asa Keyes, in charge of the prosecution of the McPherson case, had said that he had evidence that Martin drew up the affidavit only after talking over the long-distance telephone with Mrs. McPherson.

"All I know of this case is that Mr. Ormiston came to my office, sat down into a typewriter and wrote out his story exonerating Mrs. McPherson. I never received a telephone call from Mrs. McPherson," Martin said.

FIVE PERSONS ARE INJURED IN AUTO MISHAPS

Five persons were hurt yesterday in three automobile accidents in Orange county, according to reports made to the sheriff's office.

Three persons, J. Taylor, 320 Lafayette place, Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Adams Russe, Ninth and Wall streets, Los Angeles, suffered severe bruises and Taylor probably was seriously injured when the automobile, in which they were riding, was struck from the rear, on the Irvine boulevard, and knocked into a ditch, according to a report.

They were brought to the Santa Ana Valley hospital and later removed to their homes.

Prosperus Notorey, 22, Fullerton, suffered a fractured leg at 6:30 last night, near San Juan Capistrano, when the motorcycle, on which he was riding with Russell Thompson, 237 West Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, was struck by a car, the driver of which did not stop to render aid, according to a report filed with police in San Juan Capistrano.

Notorey was taken to his home. Thompson received a bruised knee but was not badly hurt.

No one was reported injured when an automobile, said to have been driven by Jack Slocum, 326½ East Thirty-fifth street, Los Angeles, struck a machine owned by W. E. Gerkin, 509 Wisteria place, Santa Ana, while the Gerkin machine was parked at the curb at 907 South Main street. A report of the accident was filed with the city police.

7 FIREMEN INJURED
SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Seven firemen were injured early today in a general alarm fire, which consumed the buildings of three firms in the Brannan street lumber district.

SUNDAY SERMON

"PRIVILEGE OF ILLUSION"

Sermon by the Rev. Perry Frederick Schrock, First Congregational church, Sunday morning, October 10.

TEXT: Faith means the assurance of what we hope for; it is our conviction about things that we cannot see—Hebrews 11:1 (Goodspeed's translation).

We are indebted to Paul Sabatier, the biographer of St. Francis of Assisi, for this striking and suggestive phrase. He is just about to relate the story of St. Francis' brave attempt to evangelize the Mohammedan world when he turns aside to philosophize a bit as follows:

"Those who have the genius for religion have generally the privilege of illusion. They never quite see how large the world is. When their faith has moved a mountain they thrill with rapture, like the old Hebrew prophets, and it seems to them that they see the dawning of the day when the glory of the Lord will appear, when the wolf and the lamb will feed together." Blessed illusion, that fires the blood like a generous wine, so the soldiers of righteousness hurl themselves against the most terrific fortresses, believing that the once taken the war will be ended.

Privilege of Illusion

Faith, says the writer to the Hebrews, is just this privilege of illusion. It is the assurance of what we hope for; it is our conviction about things that we cannot see. He calls the roll of the Old Testament great, as men who had this privilege of illusion. "Abraham obeyed God. For he was looking forward to that city which has the sure foundations, designed and built by God." Moses refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter. "Faith made him leave Egypt, unafraid of the king's anger, for he persevered as though he saw him who is unseen."

These were men who had the "blessed illusion that fires the blood like a generous wine" so that they were glad to hurl themselves against the most terrific fortresses.

Not all men agree with Sabatier. To the man on the street the souls with the privilege of illusion are "visionaries," "impractical idealists," men who fly and have no place upon which to stand.

Yet it is the visionary, the impractical idealist, the man, in the words of Doctor Jowett, who "can smell the fragrance of the harvest while the snow is still on the ground," who is the real pioneer of progress. It is the brave souls, who, because they had the privilege of illusion, dared to hurl themselves against the terrific fortresses that blocked the way of progress, who have led the advance of mankind.

"Expect God Will"

It was Robert Morrison, a youth, who first went to China as a Protestant missionary. No ship sailing from England would give him passage. So he came to America. The shipping agent in New York said to him: "Do you really expect to make an impression upon the idolatry of the great Chinese empire?" Morrison replied: "No, sir; but I expect God will." He labored for 27 years and in all that time held no public meetings and saw only three or four souls touched by the renewing power of the Christ. Yet, in his last letter home, he wrote: "I wait patiently the events to be developed in the course of divine providence."

It was Samuel Mills, a freshman in Williams college, who caught the vision of the need of the heathen world and the obligation and opportunity of Christian America. As a result there was organized the American board, that great organization that has been for over 100 years, spreading light and life throughout the dark places of the earth.

Out of Darkness

It was William Duncan, a youth of 22 years, who had the illusion that he could Christianize and civilize the Indians of Alaska. Against that fortress he hurled himself. And he led a great company out of savagery into civilization; out of heathenism into Christian faith and life; out of the darkness of ignorance into the light of knowledge.

I suppose that it is because of this privilege of illusion which youth has that most of the founders of great religions have been young men. Mahavira, the founder of Jainism, was 30 years old when he began his work. Gautama Buddha was 29 years old when he made the great renunciation. Nanak, the founder of Sikhism, was 30 years old when he received his revelation. Zoroaster was 30 years old at the beginning of his ministry. Mohammed was about 35 years old at his call and Jesus began his ministry at 30 years of age. Youth, who is most abundantly blessed with the privilege of illusion, has been the leader of mankind and will continue to be.

Illusioned Earth As Sphere

But it is not only in the field of religion that we find the leadership of the illusioned. Columbus had an illusion that the earth was a sphere and that he could sail westward from Europe and arrive at the East Indies. The abolitionists were illusionists. They had an illusion, that slaves ought to be free and they ought to be American citizens. Fortunately, indeed, it is they could not foresee the problems that freedom would create. Our early prohibitionists were illusionists. And because they were they hurled themselves against the fortress of the open saloon and felt confident that the slightest amendment would win the war.

Faith, the privilege of illusion, is the victory that is overcoming the world. It is the assurance in men's hearts of the things they hope for; it is their conviction about things they cannot see. It is just these great illusions that have been the dynamic of the world's progress.

Form of Illusion Changing

To men of religion is given the privilege of illusion. In the church today is the illusion that the kingdom's of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and of his Christ. The form of this illusion is changing. Once men held the illusion that our western type of Christianity was to overcome and supplant all the other religions. Today we are beginning to be possessed with the illusion that it is possible for the teaching and spirit of Jesus to permeate and transform the other religions without necessarily supplanting them. For instance, Rabbi Enelow, of Temple Emanuel, New York, thinks that Jew and Gentile can unite upon the religion of Jesus—and the Jew still remain a Jew. So men of religion are hurling themselves against the great fortresses of heathen customs and practices, with the sure conviction that the creative power of the Spirit of Jesus can transform them and make them essentially Christian.

Christian Social Order

There is today the illusion of the possibility of a really Christian social order. What an illusion it is! A world of business in which the ethics of Jesus—the ethics of the Golden Rule and The Sermon on the Mount—shall be the accepted standard. A world of politics and government in which men shall seek to work out the life purpose of Jesus—"Not to be ministered unto but to minister." It is a privilege to have such illusions. It does fire the blood like a generous wine and causes those who have it to hurl themselves against the fortresses of pagan business principles and corrupt political practices. And just because men have the illusion and because men of illusion dare to venture, a Christian social order will one day come to be.

International Peace

There is another great illusion that many people today are privileged to have. It is the illusion of international peace. It is the illusion that some day the nations of the world will use their resources for constructing implements of peace rather than for the implements of destruction. It is the illusion that some day the nations of the world will not learn war any more.

And just because men have this illusion of peace they gloriously hurl themselves against the great forces that make for international discord and strife. They enthusiastically support every movement that makes for international harmony and co-operation. They do so because they have the assurance in their hearts of the peace they hope for; they have the conviction in their minds of the peace they cannot see. They have the privilege of illusion.

SURPRISE PLANNED FOR BROTHERHOOD

Members of the Men's brotherhood of the First Baptist church will be entertained at their regular monthly dinner meeting, tomorrow night, in the dining room of the church, by a surprise program, prepared by Kemper Taylor and Benjamin Brubaker, it was reported this morning.

No indication as to the nature of the program could be obtained from the committee. Only comment was that the entertainment would be excellent.

All men of the church, whether members of the brotherhood or not, are asked to attend this meeting, said J. P. Williams, president.

COUNTY HEALTH WLIL STAGE RALLY

Miss Mildred Deebach, graduate nurse, until recently of Minneapolis, Minn., has been appointed county health nurse, to take the place of Miss Florence Ames, who resigned some time ago to accept an position with the state board of health.

Miss Deebach holds a B. S. degree from the University of Minnesota. Following her university graduation, she trained in the Central School of Nursing, Minneapolis, graduating from that institution. While in college she specialized in political economy and social science.

This summer she accompanied the medical mission of the International Grenfell association on its expedition to Labrador as health nurse.

In order to protect herself from the dust and sun the fashionable woman motorist in France has taken to attaching a strip of black silk to the bottom of her goggles in the manner of a Venetian carnival mask.

Because no other Washer can compare with the MAYTAG

Two More Trainloads of MAYTAGS are Coming to California

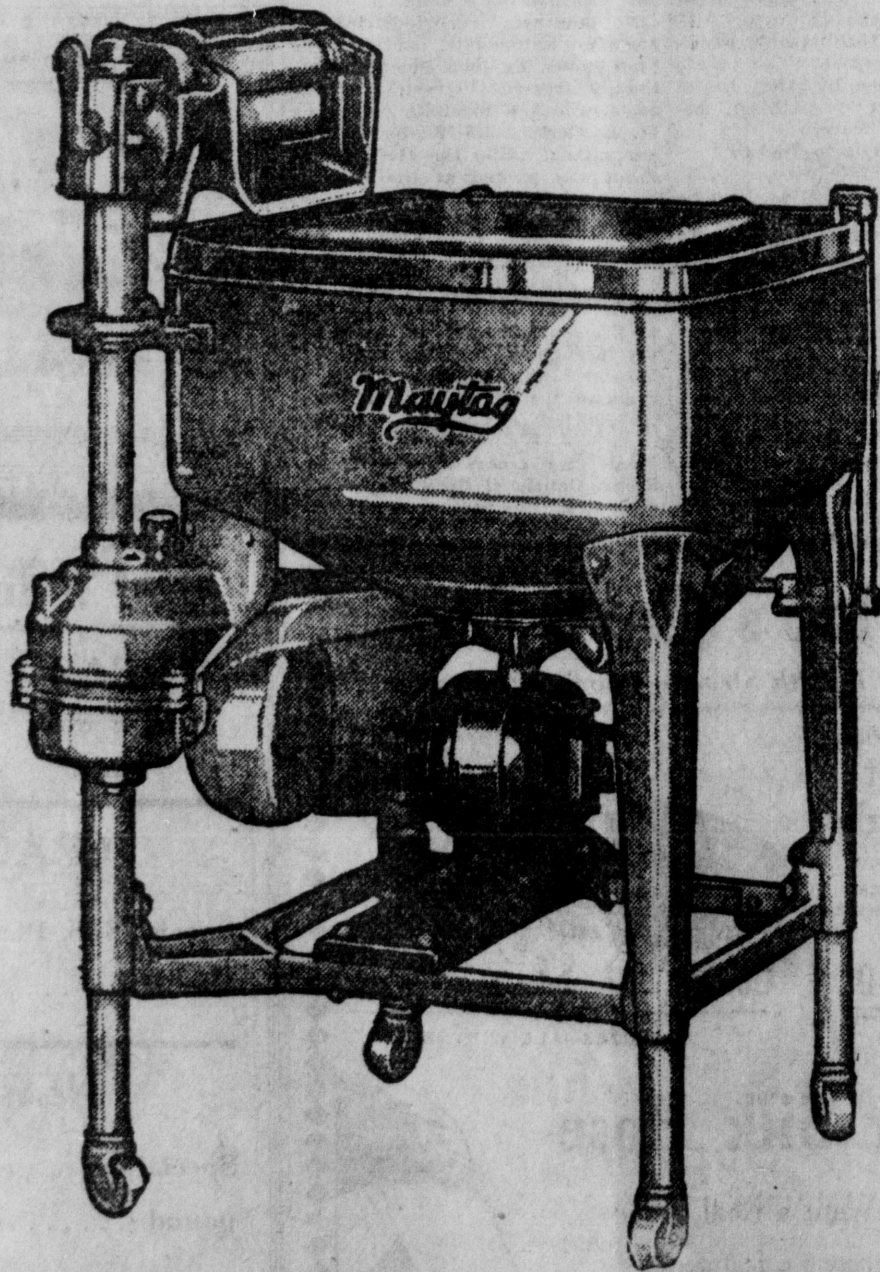

'Because there is no other washer to rival the Maytag—to match its marvelous washing ability—its immeasurable helpfulness on washday, two or more trainloads of the Maytag Gyrafoam are coming to California to meet the demand of housewives who have learned the meaning of the short and easy Maytag "wash-hour."

Because of the Maytag's unfaltering performance in thousands of California homes, it is invariably selected by practically every other buyer of an electric washer, until now, better than 40 per cent of all washers sold are Maytags.

There is clothes cleanliness never before equalled in the Maytag's life-lasting, cast-aluminum tub that holds four gallons more than other washers, where even collars, cuffs and wristbands are washed spotlessly clean without hand-rubbing. Where even greasy overalls are washed as clean as new in 10 minutes!

There is comfort never before approached in the Maytag's adjustable legs that raise or lower the Maytag to suit your height. There is real wash-day pleasure in the low-set wringer that instantly adjusts itself to a handkerchief or a blanket, and wrings both dry.

Try the Maytag in your own home. Do a week's washing without obligation or expense. In no other way can the real helpfulness and value of the Maytag be made so clear to you. Remember, if the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it.

Many Handsome Towels Given Bride-Elect At Gift Shower

NE OF October's bride-elect, Miss Vivian Smith, charming fiancée of Gale Harmon, was complimented at a delightful affair late last week, planned by two young matrons, Mrs. James E. Hughes and Mrs. Richard Howland, and given at the home of the former, 2601 Orange avenue.

The home was attractively decked with autumn flowers in lavender and yellow tones, and tables were in readiness for an evening of progressive rock, in which special scores were made by Miss Irene Blower and Miss Hazel Smith.

The tables were then arranged attractively with pastel tinted nut cups and other pretty appointments for serving refreshments of pumpkin pie with whipped cream, and hot chocolate. Assisting the hostesses in serving, were their sisters, Mrs. Roy Ropke and Miss Cora Holt.

After the refreshment hour, the pretty prizes were presented. Miss Blower and Miss Hazel Smith, and the honor guest, Miss Vivian Smith, was told that she was to receive guest prize. In this case, the reward was the shower of beautiful towels for all manner of use, presented her by the guests.

These included the Misses Marjorie Arnold, Lillian Pitt, Ethel Coffman, May Beamer, Hazel Salisbury, Helen Salisbury, Frances Knudsen, Gladys Bush, Berenice Finuf, Cora Holt, Hazel Smith, Cleo Bowers, Irene Blower, Lydia Fisher, Esther Coffman, Mesdames Edward Burns, Leon Holt, William Stauffer, Roy Ropke, and the hostesses, Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Howland.

Ebell Past Presidents Meet for Luncheon In Medlock Home

ITH all but three of their number present, Ebell past presidents shared a most enjoyable luncheon and afternoon session last Friday as guests of Mrs. J. R. Medlock and Mrs. C. F. Cross at the home of the former, 820 North Main street.

Tall candles flanking a low bowl of lavender tinted asters, made the luncheon table attractive, and the delectable menu was served by the hostesses with the assistance of their daughters, Mrs. Clarence A. Gustlin and Mrs. C. F. Rowland.

The event of chief interest in the afternoon business session was the discussion relative to the annual Foundation Day program in November, always presented by the past presidents. Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, the society's first president, was present from Los Angeles and talked most entertainingly on the past history of clubdom, also offering suggestions for Ebell's future policies and activities.

The three absent presidents were Mrs. A. J. Lawton, Mrs. J. E. Gowen and Mrs. E. D. Buss of Bakersfield, while those present to enjoy the hospitality of Mrs. J. R. Medlock and Mrs. C. F. Cross were Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, Mrs. Victor Montgomery, Mrs. J. W. Bishop, Mrs. S. M. Davis, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. Angus J. Crookshank, Mrs. W. L. Grubb, Mrs. J. E. Clarkson, Mrs. Sam W. Nau and Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson.

Euterpean Trio in Ebell Program

Tonight's recital at Ebell clubhouse, presented as one of the vanishing party functions, promises to be one of the most delightful as well as the largest yet planned by any hostess group.

Beginning at 8 o'clock, the program will present Marie Bishop, U. Holmes Bishop and Neal D. Pritchett, forming the Euterpean trio, in a recital of solo and trio numbers.

While the hostesses presenting the event will entertain many guests, the recital will be open to non-members of Ebell, at the same admission fee. Gentlemen escorting ladies will be admitted as a special courtesy.

The hostess group is composed of Mrs. Holmes Bishop, Mrs. Edward C. Erwin, Mrs. E. M. Nealley, Mrs. F. W. Slabaugh, Mrs. Harry Zaiser, Mrs. Albert Zaiser, Mrs. J. E. Paul, Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, Mrs. Harry N. Hayes, Mrs. C. F. Cross, Mrs. J. C. Horton, Mrs. J. G. Forman, Mrs. C. E. Smith, Mrs. C. M. Rowland, Miss Leonard Tompkin, and Miss Freddie Drake.

These hostesses are requested to be at the clubhouse by 7:45 o'clock, in readiness to greet their guests upon their arrival for the program.

Reforestation Move Interests B. and P. W.

Members of Santa Ana Business and Professional Women's club, will be interested in the fact that Mrs. Margaret D. Yale of Burbank, president of the California Federation B. and P. W., has announced her endorsement of Proposition No. 22, the Reforestation Constitutional amendment.

Prominent women's club of California have been active in supporting the reforestation amendment, and many local chapters have had speakers to explain the subject. It has been brought out that, while the measure is labeled, "Exemption of Forest Trees from Taxation," the title is entirely misleading, inasmuch as the amendment only exempts young immature forest trees under forty years of age. Furthermore, at present, county assessors in the timbered areas do not place a value upon this young timber, and the property is placed upon the tax rolls for the land value alone. There is no assurance, however, that the above policy will always be followed. One might spend thousands of dollars planting young trees only to have this crop eaten up by taxes later by a change in present policy.

The object of Proposition 22 is to guarantee that present procedure will continue in the future, thereby encouraging the investment of private capital in the reforestation of burned over and cut-over lands, and promoting increased protection of such young trees from fires, insects and other enemies. As several legislators of the mountain counties pointed out in Sacramento when the amendment was up for consideration, reforestation cannot be carried on by private capital unless there is some possibility of raising trees at a profit. Unless cutover or burned over forest lands can be carried for a period of 60 to 100 years, (the length of time required to produce merchantable timber), such lands will probably revert to the state for non-payment of taxes. Many eastern states have gone through exactly the same cycle. Hundreds of thousands of acres are totally tax exempt, inasmuch as they have reverted to the state. As a result, once prosperous counties have become bankrupt, for the full burden of taxation was then placed upon the farm lands of the counties.

Proposition 22 places reforestation upon a farm crop basis. The lands will be annually taxed, but the growing crop of trees will be exempt, as are all growing farm crops now, until the crop is held in storage. In the case of farm crops, storage means actual storage on the first Monday in March; in forest tree crops, storage means maturity of timber whether kept standing on the ground or in actual storage in March.

The California Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs is looking forward to the welfare of future generation in California. If growing children are to be assured an adequate supply of lumber, paper and other timber products, growing forests must be started today.

Proposition 22 writes into the constitution what is now common practice among timberland county assessors. It does not remove present taxable values from the assessment rolls. It is essential that Proposition 22 be passed if reforestation is to be carried on in California upon a large scale, according to far-seeing legislators.

Further Details of Ebell Flower Show

In anticipation of the special table of home-cooked foods and home-canned fruits which Miss Minnie Childs will superintend Wednesday at the annual Ebell Flower and Garden show at Ebell clubhouse, a request was broadcast today, for home-made candies to add to the supply of inviting dainties on sale.

The candies at previous events, have always been distinguished by a variety and deliciousness that makes them sell rapidly. So Miss Childs wants an unusual amount donated in readiness for Wednesday.

Those who have promised cooked foods for her department or plants and bulbs for the department devoted to growing things, are asked to have them at the clubhouse early Wednesday morning. Of course narcissus and iris bulbs are excepted. Those had to be at the clubhouse by last Saturday to be prepared for sale.

In regard to the ribbons and other trophies offered by the garden section, perhaps the most interest is attached to the handsome cup offered for dahlias growers and which must be won for three years before it becomes the permanent possession of the grower. The collections of dahlias must include at least four varieties, namely, decorative, cactus, peony and show. It is anticipated that many amateur gardeners will enter their choice blossoms in competition for the handsome cup.

Mrs. Hilton Presents Garden Party for Ebell Friends

SUMMER garden plot, green and shaded, a pool where goldfishes gleamed and water lilies smiled, a Spanish home which breathed historical romance, all furnished setting for a delightful vanishing tea-musicale presented Saturday afternoon by Mrs. N. H. Hilton, 902 West Santa Clara avenue.

Guests were received beneath the shade of towering walnut trees, where garden furniture and gay umbrellas added to the attractiveness of the setting. Even the musical program was given in the garden so far as possible, the soloist, Ella May Bassett, musical comedy star and close friend of the hostess, standing in the patio and singing to the accompaniment of the piano within the house.

Mrs. Bassett and her accompanist, Mrs. Alice Shaw, came over from Long Beach for the event, as did Mrs. Jackson, teacher of drama and expression, and one of her talented young pupils, Miss Flo Frances Bigelow.

Among the songs given by the soloist in her fresh and lovely voice, were Tosti's "Serenade," "Trees," by Rasbach; "Wake Up," "Only a Rose," and an operatic selection from "La Tosca." In addition to playing her accompaniments, Mrs. Shaw gave a piano solo, "The Dying Poet." The hostess, Mrs. Hilton, also consented to play a piano number, choosing "Butterflies" by Oester.

Miss Flo Frances Bigelow gave two readings, "Lusca," and an amusing little number, "Spats," and Miss Betty Smith, young Santa Ana girl, played two dainty piano numbers of her own composition, "Nymph in Waterfall" and "Desert Flower."

Following the program, Mrs. Hilton, assisted by a bevy of charming young girls, the Misses Mary, Jane and Anne Hilton, daughters of the home, Dorothy Clarkson, Betty Smith and Flo Frances Bigelow, served tea.

The guests lingered to enjoy the attractive garden, which, covering an acre of ground, includes in addition to the grassy sweep of lawn surrounding the house, a grove of walnuts, a large space devoted to flowers and a fascinating gitchen garden in well-kept rows.

The attractive Spanish home too, came in for its share of admiration. Mr. Hilton's great-grandfather was born to the western world, and many treasures closely connected with him and his life in diplomatic circles, added their interest.

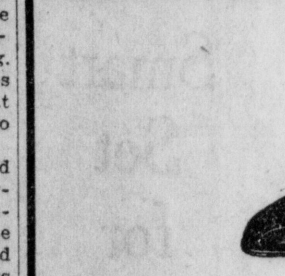

Among those asked to enjoy the pleasant afternoon were Mesdames Harvey Gardner, Norbert Lentz, C. J. Klatt, Hugh Plegner, Floyd Spencer, Harold Segerstrom, C. F. Boyer, Adam Zaiser, J. S. Warner, Charles Ebbert, J. A. Meiss, R. G. Hewitt, E. H. Granger, A. G. Flagg, E. M. Nealley, Adams, J. T. Wilson, Severin Schulte, E. C. D. Pettitt, J. W. Taylor, D. A. Harwood, H. Krahling, W. L. ## Hosts Entertain At Beach Cottage

One of the week-end events of particularly pleasant features was the house-party entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Headley, 1006 West Sixth street, at their Balboa cottage, "The Magnolias."

Swimming and kiddie beach amusements prevailed, and also the party listened with interest to radio accounts of the World Series and of the speed races. There were fourteen guests to enjoy the pleasant outing, those from out-of-town including Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Chorn of Hollywood and Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Hayes of San Pedro.

The pope has authorized cardinals and other dignitaries of the church to wear artificial silk stockings and imitation fur trimmings, as a measure of economy.

Country Club Party Given to Honor Bride-Elect

SANTA ANA Country club was rendezvous for a group of the city's younger social set Saturday afternoon, gathered at the invitation of Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw, to compliment Miss Miriam Baird who tomorrow will wed Hale Winterrodd, in Pasadena.

The young matron greeted her guests in the attractive chintz hung card room on the second floor of the clubhouse, where tables were in readiness for bridge. Rich hues of many autumn flowers added charm to the scene, tall baskets being filled with the blooms which also banked the mantel.

Attractive prizes chosen by Mrs. Crenshaw, were awarded Miss Jimmie Flagg, holder of high score; Missor Cox, second and Mrs. Paul Wallace, low. The tables were then arranged for serving a dainty tea menu in two courses.

The climax of the afternoon was reached when Miss Baird was instructed to open the packages which filled one large table in the room. These proved to be linens in wide variety of form and use, for her future home in Phoenix, Ariz.

The wedding of Miss Baird and Mr. Winterrodd will be a quiet event of tomorrow, so Mrs. Crenshaw's hospitality was the final pre-nuptial event complementing the bride-elect.

Those enjoying the afternoon included in addition to hostess and honoree, Mesdames Paul Wallace, Newton Richards of Los Angeles; Kenneth Baird, Minor Cox, Robert Jeffrey, Riley Huber, George Baker, Harold Knight of Santa Monica; Hugh Haley, Kenneth Kennison of Torrance; Burton Wright, Victor Baird, the Misses Katie Buxton, Isabel Wylie, Jimmie Flagg, Wilma Silver, Ethel Smallwood of this city, and Mesdames Fred Hobbs, Raymond Chapman and Edward Ward, Orange.

Recipes

HOT MUSTARD SAUCE

1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 Tablespoons Morehouse Mustard

HEAT vinegar and water together in double boiler, mix salt, sugar, flour and paprika, beat egg slightly then pour the hot liquid over them. Add dry ingredients and Morehouse Mustard; mix well and return to double boiler, stirring constantly until mixture becomes creamy. Remove from fire and add butter in small bits, beating well. Make dressing just before serving, and serve hot with steaks, chops, roast, corned beef or baked ham.

NOTE—The success of this recipe depends upon Morehouse Mustard, which has a higher per cent of mustard flour and contains no filler.

IMPORTANCE OF CONSERVING SANTA ANA RIVER WATER IS REAFFIRMED IN 1926 REPORT

That the large amount of rainfall conserved by spreading operations in 1922 raised the water level in the artesian basin of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties during the years 1923, 1924 and 1925, but that during the spring of this year the level began to recede, was shown in the annual report of Francis Cuttle, president of the Water Conservation association, which held its annual meeting at Riverside, October 8.

Failure to conserve the heavy rains of April, this year, represented a loss of $4,000,000 to the three counties, Cuttle estimated. The water itself represented $400,000, the rest being represented by crop production, he stated.

Cuttle was re-elected president of the association at the Riverside meeting. Other officers elected were: Frank F. Chase, vice president; C. J. Kettering, secretary-treasurer; C. S. Wilson, superintendent. The following directors were chosen: H. H. Hale, George Dierker and S. H. Finley, representing Orange county; Frank F. Chase, Francis Cuttle and E. O. Rickard, representing Riverside county; George S. Hinckley, J. C. Jones and J. W. Catlick, representing San Bernardino county.

Cuttle's report covered spreading operations, loss of water, the Santa Ana river survey, the proposed forest experiment station and the campaign to procure a federal appropriation of $1,000,000 for fire protection in the four national forests of Southern California. The report, complete, follows:

Water spread—The problem of securing and maintaining water supplies for domestic purposes and irrigation continues to be the most prominent problem before the people of San Bernardino, Riverside and Orange counties. The continued dry weather, the increase in population and the falling of the water plane (in most places) aggravate the situation.

It should be recalled that the climatic condition of the three counties is naturally that of a desert country and when it is understood that only 1 per cent of the water of the state of California originates south of the Tehachapi mountains, and that 20 per cent of the irrigable land lies in the same region, and that the population in this area is increasing by leaps and bounds, it will be better understood why the difficulty in securing and maintaining the water supplies.

The state engineer is authority for the statement that if all of the water which falls in Southern California were conserved and put to beneficial use that we would have only a 25 per cent increase over what is now being used. This emphasizes the necessity for prompt and effective conservation works.

Reserve Water Drawn Out
Water spread—During the past year this association diverted from the Santa Ana river and Plunge creek 9370 acre feet of water. Practically all of this amount was diverted during the month of April, 1925. The water level in the artesian basin, which is affected by this spreading of water, has risen 6.18 feet during the years 1923-24-25, which no doubt was the result of the large amount of water spread in 1922, but during the spring of 1926 the pressure began to recede and today (September 30) the average height, as shown by pressure above the top of 7 wells under observation by this association, is 24.30 feet as compared with 29.67 feet for the season 1924-25. From this it is evident that the large amount impounded in 1922 has been drawn out.

Conspicuous evidence of the result of spreading water on the debris cone is found in the flow of water from two wells of the Riverside Water company, located on Ninth street, San Bernardino. The flow from the Poole well increased from 155 inches in July, 1926, to 185 inches in August, 1926; the flow from the Scheuer well increased from 55 inches in June, 1926, to 91 inches in August, 1926. These wells are in direct line with the grounds of the Water Conservation association where water is spread. The fact that the increase of water in these wells came so shortly after water was spread on the debris cone would indicate that there is an open underground channel from the water spreading grounds fairly direct to these wells and that the water spread in April must have reached the wells and increased in flow. The writer knows of no other reason for the increase in flow of water in these wells.

Water lost—Unfortunately the heavy rains of April, 1926, came in such manner as to carry large quantities of silt, which, if diverted onto the spreading grounds, would fill up the interstices in the gravels, thereby making it impracticable, if not impossible, to sink clear water when it is available. Assuming this water which was wasted, or lost, to be worth $10 per acre foot to irrigators, there is a loss of approximately $400,000; and assuming that this water applied to the irrigation of the intensively cultivated lands in the three counties would produce crops to the value of ten times the cost of irrigating water, would mean a loss of $4,000,000 by reason of the wasting into the ocean of this precious 400,000 acre feet of water.

Santa Ana river survey—The survey being made by the state of California, in co-operation with the three counties, for complete conservation and flood control of waters of the Santa Ana river, has been completed as far as the field work is concerned. The data are now being compiled in the office of the state engineer who advises that as soon as the report is ready copies will be submitted to the boards of supervisors of the three counties and to this association. As soon as this report is received it should be considered carefully by people in the three counties who are interested in complete flood control and conservation, to the end that the plan submitted, or some modification of it, may be put into effect at as early a date as possible so that the water from this watershed may be desilted, after which it can be sunk in the debris cone to replenish the supply which is so badly needed. It is hoped that this report will be ready before the first of the year so that plans may be made for securing financial assistance from the state during the session of the legislature which begins January 1, 1927.

Seek $1,000,000 Appropriation

Million Dollar Bill—Co-operating with the Conservation Association of Southern California and other agencies throughout the state, this association has taken an active part in the campaign to secure from the federal government an appropriation of $1,000,000 to be matched by local interests for the building of fire protective systems on the four national forests in Southern California. An attempt to have this amount included in the federal budget was unsuccessful, but after that a bill was introduced providing for an appropriation by congress of $1,000,000, and notwithstanding the fact that this bill did not have the approval of the bureau of the budget, it passed committees of both the house and senate, which is quite a remarkable showing in view of the economy program now being so strongly advocated by the administration.

Even though the $1,000,000 bill was defeated, an item of $100,000 was included in the secondary emergency deficiency bill passed by the last congress for commencing work on the fire prevention systems in the four national forests of Southern California. This amount was quickly matched by local interests, the San Bernardino National forest securing $17,500, which means the sum of $35,000 available for the construction of fire prevention systems. This work is now being done under the supervision of Forest Supervisor S. A. Nash-Boulden of San Bernardino.

Lanes 30 feet wide are being cut through brush covered areas and while these may not, in all cases, stop brush fires, they provide a very effective vantage ground from which to start back fires, or control fires by other means. This $100,000 does not affect in any way the $1,000,000 item which we are trying to induce the bureau of the budget to include in the next federal budget. The director of the bureau of the budget, General Herbert N. Lord, sent a representative of California to investigate this matter in the person of C. H. Fullaway, who was accompanied by Major F. A. Frost. The necessity for protecting local watersheds was presented to Mr. Fullaway and Major Frost at a dinner at the Mission Inn, August 14, 1926, when many representative men from the three counties presented the matter to them. At the close of the meeting, and later after inspecting our spreading grounds and watersheds, Mr. Fullaway gave the impression that while he could not commit the bureau of the budget to the expenditure, he would present our claims to General Lord and that he felt that they would lose nothing of their strength by reason of what he had heard and seen while in Southern California.

Experiment station—We have been trying for a long time to secure the establishment of a federal forest experiment station in California, and during the last session of congress an appropriation of $50,000 was secured for this purpose.

Earle H. Clapp and J. E. Marsh, who have charge of the establishment and work of forest experiment stations in the United States, came to California and made an examination of the local situation and were shown by the writer and others over the water spreading grounds and the mountain watershed, particularly a place near Devil's canyon where there is a very vivid illustration of the result of deforestation by fire. They expressed themselves as convinced of the importance of protecting the watershed cover and experimenting to find out what kind of growth would be of the greatest service, and finally agreed to accept a site in Devil's canyon donated by the city water department of San Bernardino, together with a supply of water for irrigation. Mr. Clapp, Mr. Marsh and Mr. Kotok (the latter will have charge of the forest experiment stations in California) believe that money appropriated should be expended for investigation work on the watersheds and in forests of California without the establishment of a definite experiment station or nursery, but being urged to establish such a nursery, they accepted the above site on condition that local interests would provide $3500 per annum for carrying on the work. This money has been practically all provided for and the experiment station will be a reality in the near future.

Orange County Benefits
Benefit of water spreading—The question is sometimes asked as to what benefit is being derived from conservation of water on the debris cone at the base of the San Bernardino mountains, particularly by the people of Orange county. This is answered by the fact, for it is a fact, that the water levels in the San Bernardino artesian basin showed a rise of over six feet in three years when the water plane in nearly every other section in Southern California showed a decided lowering. This naturally gives a greater supply to the people who get their water direct from the San Bernardino artesian basin, this water being conserved and prevented from running into the ocean is used on lands about Riverside and vicinity, the underground or return waters increasing the flow of the Santa Ana river to supply the people in Orange county.

A concrete example of benefit to Orange county people in this conservation work is found in the diversion of water by the Riverside Water company. That company has the right to divert and pump the waters of Spring brook in Fairmount park, Riverside, which flows directly into the Santa Ana river, and as a matter of fact, it did pump and use that water for several years during the last series of dry years which ended in 1925. The diminished flow of water in the river going to Orange county in just the amount pumped by the Riverside Water company, 300 inches. So long as that company can secure its supply in the San Bernardino artesian basin or in the bed of the Santa Ana river, or other points, it will not pump the water of Spring Brook, which is then permitted to flow directly down to Orange county, but if the supply of the Riverside Water cone is diminished in the San Bernardino artesian basin or Warm creek, it would naturally be compelled to pump the water of Spring Brook to the detriment of the people of Orange county.

So far as the writer has been able to get in touch with people interested in this matter, he has found that sentiment is growing all the time in favor of complete flood control and conservation of water of the Santa Ana river; the prospects were never better than they are now for substantial financial assistance from the federal government, the state, and local interests for the construction of works for comprehensive flood control and conservation of the waters of the Santa Ana river and its tributaries.

Respectfully submitted,
FRANCIS CUTTLE, President,
Water Conservation association.

Wife Gets Blame Because Speeder Couldn't Pay Fine

Kenneth Morrison, justice of the peace, is in receipt of a letter from a man whom he fined several weeks ago for speeding. At the time the sentence was passed, the motorist did not have enough money to pay the fine, so Justice Morrison gave him time, calling his attention to the fact that payments must be made regularly.

The motorist offers an excuse, heard many times by the justice, for not having paid his last installment. The letter, in part, is as follows:

"Dear Sir Justice: I did not get money enough to send to pay the rest of my fine, $10, I only had $7.00 and think it was best to send whole sum. I'll let you know, sir justice, that I cannot obtain any money before next Saturday when I get my paycheck for the week.

"I am sorry that I can not fulfill my promise, I expect to have the money home, but I got a wife that use lot of money."

FARM MEETING CONDUCTED BY CENTER WOMEN

For the first time in Orange county farm annals, women took charge, staged the program and otherwise thoroughly conducted the regular monthly meeting of the Orange County Farm center at the West Orange school. Mrs. J. A. Smiley acted as chairman of the evening.

From the time the meeting was formally called to order by Mrs. G. C. Bradford, who also read the minutes of the last session, until the refreshments were served, concluding the session, women were in complete charge.

One over-enthusiastic farm member, male species, was speedily fined shortly after the session opened for allowing such a caustic remark as the following to drop from his lips: "I knew the meeting would start late with the women in charge."

Men Are Subdued
After that one healthy fine had been inflicted, the other male members were subdued and meek and the meeting went forward without further disturbing remarks from the gallery.

The report of the center directors, which was to have been made by Mrs. H. J. Hinrichs, was not given because it had not been prepared. Mrs. A. M. Stanley gave a report of the secretary-manager of the Orange County Farm bureau.

A song by the West Orange Farm center glee club was next on the program, followed by a round table discussion on "What Makes a Good Farmer's Wife," led by Mrs. Hafer. The topic, "Is There More to Farming Than Work?" was discussed by Mrs. Joe Witt.

Farm Topics Discussed
Other topics discussed were, "The Advantages of Raising a Family on a Farm," led by Mrs. W. A. Dyer; "Why Girls Want to Marry Town Boys," led by Mrs. Leonard; "How to Keep the Young People on the Farm," led by Mrs. Minter; "Do Young People on the Farm Need an Education if They Want to Remain on the Farm?" led by Mrs. Edna Watters.

Mrs. Schofield, of Buena Park, discussed the parts conveniences in homes and social relations play in developing love for farm life.

A reading, by Miss Mary Blake-man, and instrumental music, by Miss Milmoth Stanley, were features of the entertainment program.

Another entertainment feature was a dialogue, presented by Mrs. G. C. Bradford and Mrs. R. L. Blanchard.

The sale of boxes netted approximately $29, $30 of which was diverted toward the fund for helping the federal reapportionment plan on the November ballot.

One night in 1889 Mrs. Wesley W. Tower of Waterbury, Conn., lost her power of speech without any apparent cause. Now, after 37 years, her speech has returned to her as mysteriously as it vanished nearly four decades ago.

EXPERIENCE OF WESTERN GIRL
Found Cannery Work Too Tiring

The fertile valleys of Oregon help to supply the tables of America. This is possible thru the magic of the humble tin can.

In one of the canning establishments, Julia Schmidt was employed. It was complicated work because she did sealing and other parts of the work. It was strenuous work and she was not a strong girl. Often she forced herself to work when she was hardly able to sit at her machine. At times she would have to stay at home for she was so weak she could hardly walk. For five years she was in this weakened condition.

She tried various medicines. At last, a friend of hers spoke of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Miss Schmidt gave it a trial.

"Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to all my friends who tell me how they suffer and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Julia Schmidt's address is 652 North Front St., Salem, Oregon. For sale by all druggists.

WINTERSBURG
WINTERSBURG, Oct. 11—A last minute reversal of appointments of pastors at the Methodist conference which closed at Pasadena last Monday, caused the exchange of the local pastor, the Rev. J. Scott Willmarth, giving Wintersburg church a new pastor, the Rev. Mr. Carpenter, who comes from the Fresno district.

Mr. Willmarth has been transferred to Velva, a new town in the San Fernando valley and the family expects to move to the new home within a week. Mr. Willmarth went up Saturday to his new appointment, preaching there Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Carpenter, Mrs. Carpenter and their five children will move to Wintersburg at a near date to occupy the local parsonage.

Mrs. W. P. Treece was the delightful hostess at a 1 o'clock luncheon Friday, at which 13 covers were laid at the table which bore out the Halloween spirit in it's decorations. The guest list included Mrs. James Shepherd, Mrs. A. C. Ports and Mrs. Ray F. Hopkins, of Long Beach; Mrs. Dell Barry, Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Mrs. Babe Rowan, Mrs. Mary McGill, Mrs. Luther A. Arthur and little daughter, Amy Alverga, Mrs. Mildred Ridenour; Mrs. Jack Whitsett and Mrs. Esther Morris, of Huntington Beach; Mrs. Bell Hoke, of Newport Beach.

Normand Ruoff, who was operated on for appendicitis at the Santa Ana Valley hospital last Monday, is recovering nicely and is receiving visitors now. Normand who attends the naval academy at San Diego, was at home on a visit when taken ill.

The monthly meeting of the Junior Queen Esther society of the Methodist church was held Friday evening at the home of June Slater, with nine girls present. A pot-luck supper was first on the program. China and Japan were the subjects and the cards gave pictures of the people of these countries with descriptions of native customs.

Four new members were initiated that evening, these being Lois Vandruft, Velma Wentzel, Icie Hutchinson and Levina Rogers. This brings the membership up to 13, with Mary McDonald, president; Marie McMillan, vice president; Marjorie Cowling secretary, Bonnie Fox, treasurer, June Slater and Delma Stinson, entertainment committee and Geraldine Gardner and Isabelle Russell, dinner committee.

Those present at Friday's meeting were Isabelle Russell, Lois Vandruft, Geraldine Gardner, Benelyn Fox, Velma Wentzel, June Slater, Icie Hutchinson, Delma Stinson and Levina Rogers.

The Queen Esthers are planning a Halloween party for the near future and their next regular meeting will be held the first Friday in November at the home of Delma Stinson.

A delightful family affair was held in Willowbrook Thursday at the home of Mrs. Boydon Hall

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 50c and 60c.—Adv.

Cancellation of Trust Deed Won By Masonic Body

The Anaheim Masonic Temple association was successful in its court action to procure cancellation of a $40,000 trust deed against its property, when Superior Judge H. G. Ames granted its suit against the Orange County Trust and Savings bank, holder of the trust deed.

The Masonic association had executed the trust deed as security for payment of a $40,000 bonded debt. The bonds were paid off several years ago and were burned at a celebration by the order. Then it was discovered that, in order to cancel the trust deed, the bonds must be surrendered to the bank.

Having burned the bonds, the association was forced to take the case to court to prove that the bonds had been paid.

PAST EXALTED RULER OF S. A. ELKS IS DEAD

A. J. Klunk, former business man of Santa Ana and Orange and a past exalted ruler of Santa Ana lodge, No. 794, B. P. O. E., died yesterday in his home in Los Angeles.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed today. Klunk was one of the 19 past exalted rulers of the Santa Ana lodge present, two weeks ago, at a meeting of the order, when all of the living past presiding officers were in attendance.

At that time, Klunk complained of not being very well and at one time thought he would not enter the lodge room. He was suffering from a heart affliction. The past exalted ruler held the high position in the lodge here in 1906-7, being the seventh exalted ruler.

At the time of institution of the Santa Ana lodge, Klunk was in business here, being identified with a firm of clothiers. Later he engaged in the same line of business in Orange. Concluding his business career in Orange, he moved to Los Angeles.

It is known that the former Santa Ana merchant was grieved severely by the death of his wife some months ago and it is believed that this impaired his health.

Violin Reported Stolen Was Left In Schoolhouse

When is a violin, reported stolen, not stolen?

The answer is: When the son takes it to school and forgets to bring it home.

Mrs. Grace Dixon, 1306 West Second street, reported to police Saturday that her home had been entered and that a Stainer violin, made in 1724, had been taken from its place in a closet.

Because of the age of the musical instrument, officers were determined to recover it. About the time they started their investigation, another report reached them, to the effect that the violin was not stolen at all but had been left in the Franklin school by the son.

BOOM SEASON IN CRUDE OIL PRICES IS SEEN

By E. F. SANFORD
of Cass, Howard & Sanford

In this territory there are held either the stocks or bonds of companies engaged in the petroleum industry, sugar or rubber. We therefore thought it would perhaps be of service to summarize the remarks of some statistical services along these lines.

For example, under date of September 30, Moody's expresses the opinion that we are entering "what might almost be called the boom season in crude oil prices. Perhaps, more conservatively, the favorable season. The winter demand has caused fuel oil to move upward from June or July to the following February and March. Crude petroleum usually advances about the same period through its accumulation for the gasoline supply for the following summer.

Ordinarily, improvement in gasoline prices, looking at them from a national standpoint, occurs either from September to October, or from May to June. It is the opinion of this service that while these movements are not fixed or invariable, they occur with sufficient frequency to attach significance to them.

It is the observation of Moody's that oil shares typically reach their lowest level during the month of August; move moderately upward during September and October; react slightly during November, and then move sharply upward in December and January. In the absence of the money market tightening sufficiently to depress the general stock market, this service believes it reasonable to expect the usual year-end advance in the prices of the stocks of refining companies.

It is considered that one antipating the purchase of oil shares should find it advantageous to purchase them on any reaction between now and the middle of December. Their sale should be considered later in January. It might be advisable to continue to hold, but this is the time to give thought to it.

LAUNDRY PATRONAGE IS CAUSE OF SUIT

Transferred from Los Angeles county to Orange county on an order for change of venue, the injunction suit brought by the Southern Service company, operator of a chain of laundries in Southern California, against Fred C. Johnson and Vernon L. Mellon, proprietors of a laundry in Newport Beach, is on file in superior court of this county.

The Southern Service company charges, in its suit, that the Newport Beach laundries, who conduct the Service laundry, have violated an agreement not to solicit patronage in the cities of Long Beach, San Pedro and Wilmington, where they formerly operated laundries that were purchased by the Southern Service company. The injunction is sought to prevent them from continuing such solicitation.

Last June 20, it is stated, Johnson sold the Economy laundry, in San Pedro, to the plaintiff, and Mellon sold a laundry route in Wilmington, known as the Harbor Service laundry, to the same company. Both, it is alleged, signed five-year agreements to keep out of the territory mentioned, including the three cities.

Since then, it is alleged, they established the Newport Beach laundry in order to conceal violation of the agreement and have been seeking patronage in the cities named. According to the petition, they have been making considerable inroads on the plaintiff's business.

Attorneys Nichols, Cooper and Hickson, of Pomona, represent the plaintiffs. The defendants have retained Attorney Edward E. Kelley, of Los Angeles.

Can Society Make Us Abolish Marriage and Morals?

Four writers—one a woman of exalted social position—another an internationally famous judge—the third and fourth the greatest social novelists in America—give their authoritative answers in the four greatest literary features that have ever been published in a single magazine.

JUDGE BEN B. LINDSEY on The Moral Revolt
MRS. PHILIP LYDIG on The Tragedy of Gilded Youth

OWEN JOHNSON'S GREAT STORY "Children of Divorce"

RUPERT HUGHES' LATEST NOVEL "We Live But Once"

IN a democracy the mass of the people are given to imitation of the few. The few in America are the idle rich, who, in their search for new sensations, flamboyantly place themselves not only above the law but outside the moral code that society has evolved for its own discipline and salvation.

What once were secrets held inviolate are today openly discussed; habits of life once surreptitiously indulged are today boasted of; customs that have their roots in the safety of society are boldly being displaced by a code that justifies "anything you can get away with."

When came this amazing change in our manners and customs, no one knows. One declares it to be the direct result of the unbalancing of society by the Great War; another traces its origin to the possession of more wealth, almost overnight, on the part of vastly more people than ever before.

And no one is better placed to produce actual evidence of the change than Judge Ben B. Lindsey, of the internationally famous Family Court of Denver.

A tolerant man, an understanding man, but, more than all else, a brave man, he is presenting that evidence—and his conclusions—under the startling title, "The Moral Revolt," in the frankest series of articles that have ever appeared in a magazine.

Case after case from his own Court, related in all their illuminating details, are offered by him in support of his belief that a new code of morals, particularly in relation to sex, is being evolved under our eyes today.

And in further support of Judge Lindsey's belief, Mrs. Philip Lydig, all of whose life has been spent in the world of fashionable society here and abroad, comes forward with an article entitled, "The Tragedy of Gilded Youth," in which she too cites case after case of youthful destruction as a result of young people growing up in the atmosphere that surrounds their rich and idle elders.

Nor is that all. For in the fascinating form of the novel, Mr. Owen Johnson and Mr. Rupert Hughes, themselves familiar with all strata of society, present dramatic pictures of just what is proceeding on the inside of that society. Their novels, "Children of Divorce" and "We Live But Once," are written with no less frankness and first-hand knowledge than the articles by Judge Lindsey and Mrs. Lydig.

In addition to these contributions of the deepest human interest, the same magazine offers, in its November issue, the best and latest work of the most popular novelists and short-story writers—among others, Struthers Burt, Robert Benchley, Arthur Mason, James Hopper, Virginia Dale, Margaret Culkin Banning, and Samuel Scoville, Jr.

WRIGHT ACT IS SUPPORTED AT CONVENTION OF P.-T. A. BODY

Proposed Amendment for Legalizing Betting on Horse Races Is Opposed

URGES STUDY OF PROPOSED LAWS

No Recommendation Made On Bill to Put Bible Into the Schools of the State

Resolutions voicing opposition to initiative measure No. 9, appearing on the November ballot, providing for repeal of the state prohibition law, better known to the general public as the Wright act, were adopted by unanimous vote, at the regular fall meeting of the fourth (Orange county) district, California Congress of Parents and Teachers, held Saturday at the Orange intermediate school, Orange.

The delegates also went on record reaffirming the general policy of the organization as being strictly non-sectarian and non-partisan. It was decreed that no particular candidate nor commercial enterprise shall be endorsed by the organization.

Thanks Newspapers

Other resolutions adopted conveyed thanks to the newspapers of Orange county for support and co-operation given the various associations in the county.

Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, district president, presided over the sessions, which were attended by more than 200 active P.-T. A. workers from all parts of the county. The registration showed 49 associations represented, aggregating a total membership of nearly 5000.

Followed with more than ordinary interest was the extensive report read by Mrs. G. H. Goodale, Anaheim, chairman of the department of legislation, explaining the various measures appearing on the November ballot.

Urging the P.-T. A. members to vote "no" on amendment No. 9, listed as an initiative measure, Mrs. Goodale declared that the repeal of the Wright act would leave enforcement of the national prohibition law against bootleggers to the two federal courts, and the few federal officers and the few federal prohibition agents now dealing with the bootleg menace in California. She also pointed out that, if the Wright act were repealed, the fines now going into city and county treasuries would be lost to California.

Against Race Track Bets

Another amendment to receive the unqualified disapproval of the legislative chairman was that listed as No. 6, providing for legalizing gambling on horse racing. The adoption of this measure would not legalize horse racing for

THERE ARE INN KEEPERS WITH HEARTS; THIS ONE RETURNED GEM LOST IN SWIMMING POOL

Will any tourist who has lost a diamond out of his or her ring while swimming in a plunge in a strange land and who has just heard the plunge manager refuse to drain the plunge, but promise to send the gem along later to its owner's home, when it is found, and who has gone on homeward, feeling sure that the valuable will be found and promptly returned—will such a party please raise his or her hand?

Let's count 'em. How many hands? How many? Not a hand!

Will anyone who has returned homeward under the above stated circumstances with the sickening hunch that his or her diamond was gone forever, please raise a hand?

Aha! Here is one hand. Another! And another! A host of waving hands! Not much confidence in human nature, evidently.

And now, just once more. Will any tourist who has so returned home from a journey, only to be joyfully surprised in several days by receipt of the lost gem from the management of the plunge—and with no request for a reward—will such a party please raise a hand?

Now how many hands? Here's one! Any more? Just one? Yes, just one!

Astonishing experience

This hand belongs to Mrs. A. L. Austin, of 2020 North Main street, Santa Ana, who has had just an astonishing experience this summer.

Her experience, it is said, seems likely to cause a flow of tourist traffic through Medford, Ore., next summer. All long-suffering tourists, it is felt certain, will want to view a certain inn keeper in that city. A paragon! A curiosity! A person who didn't try to rob a tourist! Imagine that!

Medford now is definitely on the map, according to the travel bureau. Its rank as a point of national interest is permanently established, they claim. They also feel that the story of the Medford inn keeper is worth retelling.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin were returning through that city several weeks ago from their annual motor jaunt, which had taken them, this summer, to New York. At Knight's Motor Inn, they halted for the night. There was a plunge at the inn, so they decided to take a dip.

While in the plunge, Mrs. Austin accidentally struck her hand against the concrete side of the pool and the diamond set in her ring became dislodged. It sank in eight feet of water.

Mrs. Austin appealed to the management, but the inn keeper refused to drain the plunge. It was a 50,000-gallon tank, freshly filled, and the loss of 50,000 gallons of water outweighed the pleading of a transient guest.

Farewell to Diamond

"When we drain the plunge to clean out the sediment, we will send your diamond to you—if we find it," he told Mrs. Austin, indicating that the pool would not be drained for some time. She was forced to accept that dismal prospect and came on home, after bidding a secret goodbye to her diamond.

They reached home on September 2. Mrs. Austin was beginning to grow philosophical over her loss by September 3. Then, on September

PHEASANTS TO BE PLANTED IN ORANGE COUNTY

Birds Are to Be Turned Loose Under Supervision Of State Game Warden

Four hundred Chinese pheasants have arrived in San Bernardino from the California state game farm at Yountville, and will be liberated in San Bernardino and Orange counties, under supervision of W. C. Malone, state game warden, it was learned today.

The birds were ordered some time ago, through an arrangement with state officials, and it is believed by Warden Malone that they will thrive in this section, if properly protected.

It is planned to release them at Devil canyon, at a point near the Santa Ana river, south of Colton, and at Las Flores ranch. Alfalfa fields near some of these places will provide cover for the birds, whose natural habitat is any place where water and cover can be obtained and where seeds of weeds or grain, and insects are plentiful.

Although the ring-necked pheasant is not as prolific as the California quail of either the mountain or valley variety, the species multiplies rapidly, a brood of from 10 to 20 young being hatched early in the summer months and becoming self-protecting and very rapid flyers by fall.

In Oregon, where first introduced from the Orient, they give sportsmen excellent shooting and are plentiful except during years following an exceptionally cold winter, when many perish. Most farmers regard them as valuable birds because of their habit of including insects in their diet. Local sportsmen and game officials hope that the mild weather of this season will cause them to thrive even more hardily than they do in certain sections of the northwest.

Nut Receipts Here Are Light

Receipts from Santa Ana and Tustin walnut growers were light when the packing house of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association opened today for the fall pack. At 10 o'clock only 60 pounds had been received, but considerable more nuts were expected to be brought in later in the day. The Santa Ana packing house will not begin processing until about November 1. The Garden Grove packing house started processing today. It is expected by John Gowan, secretary of the Santa Ana association, that the entire crop will be picked in October, instead of running into November as in former years.

CHESS PLAYERS IN CHALLENGES TO ALL COMERS

E. L. Elliott, of Fullerton, former western chess champion, and R. P. Dow, of Laguna Beach, who acted as secretary during the Anglo-American cable chess matches a number of years ago, will play all comers simultaneously at a chess contest in the Community clubhouse, Laguna Beach, Tuesday evening.

Steps toward forming a county chess organization will be taken at the meeting, which will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock.

According to Dow, Santa Ana has a number of chess players who possess exceptional ability. Other cities of the county have expert chess players and at least 40 players are expected to be on hand for the matches.

If organization plans are carried out, a challenge will be issued to the San Diego Chess association for a match, Dow said.

PIONEER CHURCH DAYS OF COUNTY RECALLED AT 50TH BIRTHDAY OF ST. MICHAEL'S

Reminiscences of pioneer days in Anaheim and Orange county were fondly exchanged by members of St. Michael's Episcopal church, Anaheim, friends of the church and early-day members, gathered from afar, who attended a special service in the church yesterday morning and a lawn luncheon yesterday noon to celebrate the church's 50th birthday anniversary.

Many "old-timers" mingled with church more than 40 years ago, those who crowded the church auditorium to capacity at the morning service. In the crowd were Otto de Grange, prominent Fullerton rancher, who assisted in the work of building the first church structure, having driven some of the first nails that were placed in the building; Mrs. T. S. Grimshaw and Mrs. Henry Kuchel, of Anaheim, who, as very young girls, were present at the first service; Mr. Deering, of Orange, brother of the Rev. W. S. Deering, who was rector of the church for 12 years during its early history; Mrs. Alexander Wright, of Balboa, and Mrs. Rust, of Los Angeles, who were among the earliest workers in the church, and the Rev. Canon J. D. H. Browne, who preached in the

Reasons For Voting "No" On Repeal of Wright Act

By DAVID STARR JORDAN
President Emeritus Stanford University

"The constitution of the United States requires each state to have an act to enforce the eighteenth amendment.

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

"Section 1. After one year from the ratification of this article, the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation from the United States and all territories subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited.

"Section 2. THE CONGRESS AND THE SEVERAL STATES SHALL have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

The United States supreme court, interpreting the eighteenth amendment said: "The presumption must always be indulged that a state will observe and not defy requirements of the national constitution." The Wright act simply complies with this constitutional requirement as interpreted by the supreme court.

Section 3 of the Wright act reads:

"California hereby recognizes that its power to enforce the eighteenth amendment of the constitution of the United States should at all times be exercised in full concurrence with the exercise of the like power of congress; and to that end, WHENEVER CONGRESS SHALL AMEND OR REPEAL THE VOLSTEAD ACT, OR ENACT ANY OTHER LAW TO ENFORCE THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES, then the provisions of sections one and two of this act shall apply thereto."

This means that if congress should modify the Volstead act in any respect, the Wright act would be automatically modified in the same respect. The Wright act does not raise the issue of wet or dry. Its repeal would not bring back wine and beer.

The repeal of the Wright act would make it next to impossible to meet the bootleg menace in this state. It would leave the enforcement of the law against bootleggers to the two federal courts and seventy-five federal enforcement officers, and take away from California's 20,000 courts and officers the power to suppress bootlegging. The repeal of the Wright act would leave California wide open to the bootleggers.

The repeal of the Wright act would take away from California the fines now going into municipal and county treasuries. In four years, under the Wright act, Fresno county has collected $204,917 from prosecution of bootleggers; Humboldt county $204,000; Imperial county, $40,000; Santa Clara county $100,269—the expense being nominal. Other counties have similar records.

Respect for the constitution of the United States is a moral obligation that rests on every state as well as on every citizen. This is fundamental in our national life. In adopting the Wright act in 1922 the people of California voted to perform that obligation. Repeal of the Wright act would be an act of the people repudiating and dishonoring that obligation. It would be in fact an attempt at nullification. The effect of repeal on boys and girls—our future citizens—would be disastrous!

The proposed repeal of the Wright law is in no sense a referendum on the liquor question.

The chief issue involved is respect for law."

Vote NO on proposition No. 9.

Election November 2, 1926.

Famous Psychic Will Entertain Junior Chamber

The meeting of the Junior chamber of commerce tonight will be featured by the appearance of Notredamus, psychic, who will entertain with several of the feats which will be incorporated in his act in a Santa Ana theater later in the week, President Mason Yould said. Notredamus was buried at noon today and was dug up at 2:30 p. m., after a two hour siesta underground.

Tonight's meeting will be held in Ketner's cafe, beginning at 6:30 p. m., with dinner. After the entertainment program, the session will be devoted entirely to consideration of the chamber's business, it was said.

HOME REPAIRS ARE TAUGHT IN LIBRARY BOOK

"The sink is broken, hurry and call a plumber."

That, perhaps, is a most common cry in households throughout the country. But how unnecessary is the last half of that cry for help. If someone in the family had read "The Practical Book of Home Repairs," by Chelsea Fraser, there would be no need to call the plumber for he or she could have repaired the sink.

Other repair work discussed in the interesting book is that of woodwork, soldering, heating and electrical equipment. One also is told how to varnish and wax and to sharpen kitchen knives and garden tools and there also is a chapter on wall paper hanging.

No, there should be no need to call in any helper after reading "The Practical Book of Home Repairs," which may be found in the city library.

"Ordeal of Civilization"

"The Ordeal of Civilization," by James Harvey Robinson, which also is in the library, is not what one would expect from the title. Instead of giving a long list of the troubles and ordeals of modern civilization, as one would imagine, the writer merely is trying to present a history of the world in different light than that of most historians. His manner of presentation varies from an ordinary history in that the points of which he makes most often-times are barely mentioned in an ordinary history.

A book which would probably charm every boy and nearly all girls is "Bush Rangers," by Charles J. Finger. This book is not fiction, but as far as interest is concerned it is as thrilling as any novel by Zane Grey or other famous writers of "thrillers." Few persons are acquainted with the words "bush ranger" and therefore are in the dark as to their meaning. The words described men who, prisoners in countries "underneath the southern cross," have refused to suffer gross indignities heaped upon them by men in authority and escaped into the surrounding forests. The story is an account of the life of one Popjoy, who has become a bush ranger.

Story of Weld Family

Isabel Anderson was peculiarly fitted to write the book "Under the Black Horse Flag," as it is a story of the Weld family, of which she is a descendant. The book opens with the brief history of the first Weld, of whom there is an accurate account. Mrs. Anderson tells of the lives of various ancestors as generation after generation turns to the sea for a livelihood, always sailing ships over which fly "black horse flags." The greater part of the book deals with the merchant ships of the William Fletcher Weld company, of Boston.

As more and more persons are becoming interested in the lives of the Chinese, there is a greater demand for Chinese books of every kind. The newest on China to find its way to the library is "The Government of China," by Pao Chiao Hsieh. This book deals with every branch of the Chinese government, starting with a chapter on the theoretical basis of government and continuing through accounts of the emperor and his duties, the nobles, central government, department of civil service and civil service laws, knowledge of which would be valuable to any one.

Romance of South Seas

A true romance of the South seas is "Rawedia," by C. Harold Smith, who tells in this book the true story of his years in the South seas. In it are many thrilling adventures and many interesting bits of information pertaining to the natives of the island.

To prepare roasts, cover with salt and pepper, and sprinkle over a little flour. If the meat does not seem very fat, add dabs of butter or pork on top.

SANTA ANA NOT SUPPLIED WITH LARGE ENOUGH POLICE FORCE

On Basis of One 'Cop' for 1000 Citizens Community Should Have 30 Officers

22 ATTACHED TO DEPARTMENT HERE

Chief Makes Comparison of Wages Paid Guardians of Law in Southland Cities

On the basis of one policeman for every 1000 population, Santa Ana is decidedly short in the number of men on the payroll of the department responsible for maintenance of peace and protection of property of citizens of this municipality.

One policeman for each 1000 residents in a city in California is recognized as the basis for police protection, according to Claude Rogers, Santa Ana chief of police.

Computed on this basis, Santa Ana should be paying at least 30 men for wearing uniforms and strolling the streets with eyes open for thieves and others who may violate the laws designed to keep everyone in his place and the property of each individual within rightful ownership.

According to the chief, just 22 men are attached to the Santa Ana department and, of this number, only 13 are available for patrol duty. They are divided into groups, which are on duty on three eight-hour shifts.

Rogers Heads Department

The number given includes Rogers, who is at the head of the department. Rogers is only human and he cannot be in a hundred and one places at the same time or at any one place all the time, so he has to place responsibility for action of the department when he is not available.

Sid Smithwick is the second man in authority and is at the head of the investigation department—the department which delves into the details of crimes reported to the police office. Smithwick has a helper in the person of Floyd W. Howard, which means that the investigating department requires the services of two men.

And then three men are required to take care of telephone calls to the office or personal calls that may be made by residents. In the department, these men are known as desk sergeants. Frank Lutz and W. H. Wolfel are the day men and C. L. Neuschwanger is the night man.

Here you have an accounting for six of the 22 men. Running down the line of operation of the department, it is discovered that E. E. Perry goes on duty in the office at 5 p. m., and remains until 1 a. m., his duties being to answer calls requiring a man to leave the office. If the case is one which indicates serious trouble, Perry picks up some man on a beat and takes him along as a matter of safety and assurance of plenty of police power in case of trouble.

After 1 a. m., the desk sergeant may call a policeman into the office by pushing a button that flashes a red light at the inter-

VETS OF 1898 WAR HEAR TALK BY PHIL SWING

More than 150 Spanish-American war veterans and their wives gathered at St. Ann's Inn, Saturday night, to hear an address by Congressman Phil D. Swing. The veterans roundly applauded a stirring address on "Citizenship."

M. C. Cooper, commander of Calumit camp, opened the program, following a banquet. Cooper delivered the address of welcome.

Maj. R. H. Lee, Brea, presided at the meeting. Lew H. Wallace, Newport Beach, acted as toastmaster. Speakers from all sections of the county and representing every branch of war veterans were present. J. W. Markel, Santa Ana, spoke in behalf of the American Legion. F. M. Grigsby delivered a short talk as a representative of the G. A. R. W. W. Tantlinger, past commander of the Calumit camp, spoke in behalf of the Santa Ana Spanish-American war veterans.

Swing's address dealt with the problems of the soldiers during the Spanish-American war. He spoke of the various events leading to the war and of the spirit of the people of that time, comparing the patriotism of today with that of the Spanish-American war veterans. He utilized the patriotism angle to center attention on the attitude of the citizens of today toward their duties as a citizen. The congressman urged support of the constitution and declared that, unless the citizens exercised their right of voting, the country soon would fade and lose its power. His closing words were a plea to the war veterans to show their patriotism in times of peace, as well as in war and to carry out the duties of citizens of the United States.

AT THE THEATERS

Thomas Meighan and Renee Adoree in a scene from "Tin Gods," picture now showing at the Yost Broadway theater.

Myrna Loy as she appears in the picture, "Across the Pacific," current attraction at the West Coast-Walker.

WEST COAST-WALKER

The stage presentation that opened at the West Coast-Walker theater yesterday is Fanchon and Marco's favorite, "The San Francisco Beauties idea," which has received the greatest amount of favorable advance publicity of any of Fanchon and Marco's "Ideas." The show lives up to its reputation and from start to finish was enthusiastically received. The group and specialty numbers are delightful and entrancing, giving snap and pep to the entire program.

One of the featured artists is little Helene Grant who is making her way to the top, step by step, having started with Fanchon and Marco as one of the chorus. This clever little comedienne justifies her position in the current bill by completely capturing the packed audience that attended the West Coast-Walker for the opening shows.

Hilarity to the "seventh" degree is furthered, and ably so, by one of the most clever comedians ever to be billed in Santa Ana—Bobby Gilbert, who thoroughly stops the show with his versatile violin. Armond and Perez, headlining the bill, are excellent.

Way Watts is called on for the utmost in support, and displays an amount of versatility seldom shown by any single entertainer, being required to double with nearly all of the acts. Watts gets out his ukulele again this week and is greeted with his usual enthusiastic reception.

On the screen is "Across the Pacific," starring Monte Blue. The film is a spectacular melodrama built around the love affairs and adventures of a buck private who goes with the army to the Philippines to capture the rebel Aguinaldo during the Spanish-American war.

Imagine the story of a man who marries a beautiful woman. She loves him but also has a passion for politics. Time passes and soon she has forgotten her first love for the second. A child comes but she continues to spend her time away from home. Then one day, the little boy passes on. After a terrible argument, the husband packs his bags, and rushes to South America.

At a small town which has sprung up because of the building of a bridge, he finds solace in ruin. Losing his position as engineer in charge of the structure, he sinks deeper and deeper. Sickness comes but he is nursed back to health by a native girl.

Disabuse your mind

—of the thought that ROMAN MEAL, the "Happy Medium" in cereals, is a coarse bran product with merely medicinal and regulative properties.

It is a whole grain product of wheat and rye. Just a little bran is used too, and with it wonderful Flaxseed, a splendid food in itself and excellent laxative for the brain.

Roman Meal is a delicious food, nourishing and refreshing, different, whether served as the children's breakfast cereal, or in muffins or nut bread, or as a luncheon treat which you will be proud to serve your friends.

Because of the startling lack of coarse, uncooked foods in our diet something more is necessary to keep the body in that harmoniously vigorous, smoothly functioning condition—and that "something more" is Roman Meal! Every family should have it every day some way.

mother church of Episcopalianism in Orange county. It was organized in 1874 and its church building, which was erected two years later, is the oldest standing Episcopal church building in Southern California. The second Episcopal church in the county was established in Tustin and the third, some time later, in Dibble's hall, Santa Ana.

50 Years in Western Church
"Fifty years of church work in the old world is not a long time, but the last 50 years in the new world, especially in this newer part of it, has brought so many changes that it is now a much different world to that of half a century ago," declared the Right Rev. W. B. Stevens, D.D., who preached the sermon at the morning services. The Rev. Canon J. D. H. Brown, who preached in the local church 40 years ago, read the lesson for the day.

Three radical changes have affected civilization in this country during the last 50 years. The Rev. Mr. Stevens declared. He said these are the contraction of the world by new inventions for travel and news dissemination; the coming of democracy and the broadening of our ideas of brotherhood, the latter exemplified in our growing interest in social service.

All of these developments, contrary to the belief of some, he said, have a direct bearing upon religion and upon the work of the church.

"There would be no real social service without belief in God as our Father and in the brotherhood of man as taught in the Bible. The great reason for the existence of the church today, is to witness to God," he declared.

The morning service was conducted by the singing of an anthem, "Praise the Lord, Ye Heavens Adore Him," Miss Freda Lundson acting as soloist.

Following the luncheon, a number of appropriate speeches were made, the rector, the Rev. A. G. Bode, acting as toastmaster. Bishop Stevens led the way in creating a happy atmosphere in a few humorous remarks. He complimented the parish upon foresight in retaining the rector when he had been called elsewhere.

The Rev. W. L. H. Benton, of Santa Ana, brought the congratulations of the Parish of the Messiah, in that city, and a message from Mrs. W. S. Deering, widow of the former Anaheim rector, who is now ill in a Santa Ana hospital.

Appropriate remarks were made by the other visiting pastors, the Rev. Mr. Walker, the Rev. Mr. Haywood, of Anaheim, and the Rev. Mr. Moore, of Fullerton.

Others who spoke briefly on the early days of the church were Otto des Grange, and Mrs. Alexander Wright, of Balboa, who was Miss Katie Bremersmann in the early days.

Singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and the pronouncement of the benediction by Bishop Stevens brought the affair to a close.

Santa Ana Man Wins Prize In Name Contest

Several score of people up and down the Pacific coast were pleasantly surprised this morning to find in the advertising columns of various papers the announcement made by the General Petroleum corporation that a series of special awards has been authorized in connection with the $1000 name contest, recently conducted in California, Oregon, Washington and British Columbia.

It had originally been announced that only the one prize would be given, and this was awarded Homer M. Parsons, of San Bernardino.

One of these awards fell to Oliver Arnett, 508 West Pine street, Santa Ana, and if the prize is not already delivered, it may be obtained at the office of R. A. Mosher, local distributor for General Petroleum products.

The reaction of the public to the campaign was so enthusiastic and so many of the suggestions had such merit that the judges in the contest felt that some acknowledgment of the efforts of these persons would to some extent express the appreciation of the General Petroleum corporation which sponsored the contest.

WRIGHT ACT IS SUPPORTED BY P.-T.-A. BODY

the simple reason that horse racing is already legalized in California, she explained. But it will create an army of professional gamblers, whose activities will tend to corrupt the youth of the state, the speaker asserted. In this connection, she referred to certain reports of the immigration officers at the Tia Juana international border, to the effect that thousands of young people, under legal age, seeking to cross the border, have been turned back by the immigration authorities.

While refraining from making any recommendations in the premises, Mrs. Goodale urged the P.-T.-A. workers to make an intelligent study of the following measures, relating to education, before they cast their votes.

Amendment No. 11, providing for the incorporation and classification of school districts, adding a new section to the political code as follows: "The legislature shall have power, by general law, to provide for the incorporation and organization of school districts, high school districts, and junior college districts of every kind and class, and may classify such districts."

Opposes Centralization
Commenting on the foregoing measure, Mrs. Goodale intimated that it savored of centralization of power and tended to remove the schools from local control. She suggested that school executives be asked to explain the purpose and workings of the measure.

Amendment No. 17, providing for the purchase with public funds and the use of the Holy Bible in the schools of the state, shall not be deemed a violation of the constitution, and a copy of the Holy Bible shall be placed in every public library and in every public classroom, and may be studied in any school or read by a teacher without comment, as a part of the daily school exercises, but no pupil shall be required to read the Bible or hear it read contrary to the wishes of his parents or guardian. No comments or recommendations were offered by Mrs. Goodale, who limited herself to the statement that each voter should decide for himself in this matter.

On amendment No. 27, exempting private high schools and colleges from taxation, not wishing to make any definite recommendations, Mrs. Goodale said that the fiscal feature of the amendment releasing numerous private institutions from taxation, should merit the thorough and deliberate consideration of every voter.

By-Law Changes Talked
Made the subject of a spirited discussion among the members was a proposal to change the constitution and by-laws to conform to those of the state organization. Mrs. Albert Launer, Fullerton, parliamentarian, led the discussion, which was participated in by Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, Santa Ana, past district president; Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, president, Santa Ana city federation; Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, president, Santa Ana high school association; Mrs. Florence Summers, Atwood, and Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Tustin.

The following major amendments to the constitution were adopted:

"Article 1, section 2. The object of this organization shall be to promote child welfare in home, school, church and community; to raise the standard of home life; to secure more adequate laws for the care and protection of women and children; to bring into closer relation the home and the school, that parents and teachers may co-operate intelligently in the training of the child, and to develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantages in physical, mental, moral and spiritual education."

"Section 2. The policy of this organization shall be non-sectarian and non-partisan. No candidate nor any commercial enterprise shall be endorsed. Its purpose shall be education."

Another important change in the constitution was the adoption of an amendment creating seven vice presidents instead of three, as heretofore. With this change, the officers for election purposes will be divided as follows: First division, president, second, fourth and sixth vice president, corresponding secretary, recording secretary, financial secretary, and auditor; second division, first, third, fifth and seventh vice presidents, treasurer, historian and parliamentarian. First and second division officers shall be elected in alternating years.

Following are the duties of the president and the seven vice presidents: President, chief executive and chairman of the executive board; first vice president, aide to the president, taking her place when necessary; second vice president, director of organization; third vice president, director of extension; fourth vice president, director of public welfare; fifth vice president, director of education; sixth vice president, director of home service; seventh vice president, director of health.

Two new associations, Magnolia and Citron, the latter of the Anaheim district, were installed with proper ceremonies. Mrs. J. Edmund Snow, past president, presided at the installing officer.

The principal address of the day was delivered by C. H. Peterson, director of Americanization of the Pasadena city schools. Speaking on "American Citizenship," the school man said that, while large sums of money have been spent in preparing the foreign-born youth for citizenship, the native-born have been neglected. The belief is held, the speaker asserted, because a man is born under the American flag, that fact itself is sufficient to qualify him for the exercise of citizenship.

As a result, Peterson said, the native-born citizen is taking but a superficial interest in the study of government and the country's institutions.

In this connection, he called attention to disclosures contained in recent surveys, showing that not only did naturalized citizens have a better knowledge of the Declaration of Independence, the U. S. constitution and the principles of American institutions than many native-born citizens, but that, as a whole, naturalized citizens turned out to the polls while the native-born citizens remained indifferent.

He added, however, that he was glad to note that the native-born Americans are beginning to take a real interest in public affairs, including a more effective and more intelligent participation in elections.

Other speakers on the program were Clarence Gustaf, Santa Ana, who spoke on "Music Appreciation," and Mrs. Amelia Meagher, secretary of the Orange County Tuberculosis association, who explained the work of that organization.

Received with much interest was a brief outline of the activities of the Crippled Children's Relief Association of Orange County, presented by Mrs. Fay R. Spangler, Santa Ana.

Miss Hazel Bemus, art supervisor of the Santa Ana city schools, gave a short talk on P.-T.-A. work in the Hawaiian Islands.

The resignation of Mrs. Charles Yount, Costa Mesa, chairman of the department of recreation, was accepted with regret. Mrs. Yount is removing from the district.

Among those present were Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove; Mrs. Burt Vorse, Seal Beach; Mrs. Charles Schweinfest, Anaheim; Mrs. F. L. Benson, Anaheim; Mrs. W. M. Snow, La Habra; Mrs. Albert Launer, Fullerton; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Tustin; Mrs. George R. Getach, Orange; Mrs. Mary B. Robertson, Santa Ana; Mrs. Florence Summers, Atwood; Mrs. D. ## FIREMEN WILL HOLD ANNUAL BALL TONIGHT

Santa Ana city firemen today were brushing off their best uniforms and otherwise "dolling up" to attend their sixth annual ball, to be held tonight in central station and on the street outside the station. Part of Sycamore street, near Third, will be roped off, it was said. Santa Ana's city dads are expected to attend the dance as are other employees, including members of the street department and the police force.

More than 700 tickets already have been sold by the firemen for the dance and this year's hop is expected to be larger, in point of attendance, than any of the five previous ones.

A seven-piece orchestra has been engaged to play for the dancers and punch will be served, with the punch ladle in the hands of the chief of the fire fighters, John Luxembourger, who each year takes that job for his own.

Santa Anans were treated last year with Charleston exhibitions. The Charleston has faded in popularity somewhat, however, and the Valencia is expected to feature the fancy dancing tonight.

Almost every year a false alarm has been turned in to the fire station about the time the firemen have taken off their hats and have their wives and sweethearts on their arm. This year, in order to make the run and return as soon as possible, should the same prank be played, the firemen will have the engines stationed in front of the hall, in readiness for a speedy getaway.

GENERAL MOTO-CRAT GASOLINE

The contest for a name for this greatest of gasolines is over. The winner of the thousand dollars in cash has been announced.

But—here's good news

Because of the widespread enthusiasm over the new motor fuel and because of the effort and interest taken by motorists in a name for it, the executives of the General Petroleum Corporation are making awards totaling in value more than $2,000.00 to a hundred and fifty persons.

Wherever you go motorists are talking about General "Moto-crat" Gasoline. Letters are pouring in telling of the wonderful results motorists are getting—more gas-miles than ever before—a noticeable increase in power—less carbon—lower transportation cost.

In appreciation of the efforts of the hundreds of thousands of users of General "Moto-crat" Gasoline who helped us to select a name, our executives have chosen from those names remaining after the winning name was selected the entry that is in their opinion the most worthy of commendation from the four major territorial divisions in which we do business. They have awarded $100.00 to each of these contestants. The following are the lucky ones:

VANCOUVER, B. C. (British Columbia Territory)
Alex Falconer, 754 Ringwood St.
WALLA WALLA, WASH. (Washington Territory)

L. G. Stevenson, M. D., 164-48th St.
FRESNO, CALIF. (California Territory)
Don C. Porter, 1927 Merced St.

In addition they have awarded from $5.00 to $100.00 to each of the following one hundred and forty-six proposers of meritorious suggestions:

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Aaron Burr

Sketches by Redner
Synopsis by Braucher

Burr's genius was essentially military. A habit of command was natural with him. When he received news of the battle of Bunker Hill, he hurried to join the army of George Washington at Cambridge. Burr was but nineteen then, and the gathering at Cambridge was more of a mob of 17,000 men than an army.

Burr fell ill of fever. While he was confined to bed he heard that Benedict Arnold was forming an expedition to Quebec.

He rose up in bed and declared he would follow Arnold. He put on his clothes and made all arrangements to join Arnold's forces.

Friends and relatives tried to force Burr from his plan, but the young man was resolute. About Sept. 20, 1775, Arnold's troops, numbering 1100, with Burr among them, embarked in eleven transports and sailed to the mouth of the Kennebec, whence the journey was to be made in bateaux. (Continued)

THE HIGH COST OF IMPROVEMENTS

We left the men to build a room.
A simple sun room on our place
Wherein a plant or two might bloom.
To give the home a touch of grace.

Now here at Pointe Aux Barques
we stay
Flooded by bills which we must pay.

Perplexed we sit and sadly sigh
And wonder what it is they've built.

Is it a castle towering high
With glistening cupolas of gilt?
Or have they tacked upon our home
Some ancient masterpiece of Rome?

I think by all the bills which come
That Michael Angelo they've hired
To build that small solarium
And give the extra space required.

Or Phidias they've called upon
To duplicate the Parthenon.
I ordered but a simple room
And fancied that I knew the cost.

But shrouded now I sit in gloom,
All hope for solvency is lost.
They said they'd build a sun room small,
I'm paying for a city hall.

The WOMAN'S DAY
by Allene Sumner

Lovely Marie Antoinette simply had to make butter and cheese to keep from being bored by living in the jeweled palace of Versailles. So her Lewie built Marie's summer playhouse called Petit Trianon, with a chicken coop, dairy house, in everything. I saw a few weeks ago the very bowl wherein the white hands of Marie are said to have mixed the butter, and the very nest where she watched her own setting hen.

Just by the way of explaining why a rich and pampered lady of Chicago seeks a divorce "so that I can live in a little house, work, and be happy."

Most of our modern fiction, says Mrs. L. A. Miller, chairman of the literature department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, tells us that for multitudes of human beings, life is a sort of blind alley; their lives are sordid, ugly. She cites "Winesburg O'": "Main Street"; "Babbitt"; O'Neill's plays; "The Perennial Bachelor."

She is right, but she forgets the many stories of gigantic achievement wrought by drab surroundings from which the achievers battle a way through. Read "Susan Shane," raggedy daughter of a flute-playing, shiftless father, a whining, incompetent mother. Susan's battle to good living with her Susan Shane cakes is merely the thing that makes America as thousands like Susan fight their way out with cakes or cabbage.

Speaking of Queen Marie of Rumania having difficulty in engaging a royal suite on any transatlantic liner for her trip to America, you may recall that Lorelei Lee, heroine of "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes," and her girl friend, Dorothy, are escorted in a royal suite when they set sail for historic places like Paris, France. Lorelei, you recall, is being educated by Gus Eisman of Chicago, the button king. Some folks unkindly call Lorelei "gold digger," but I'm sure she's just a sweet young girl trying to get along!

The ensemble idea of matching dress and coat is still Dame Fashion's first choice. But the ensemble touch, says she, can be given by a shoulder flower harmonizing with both frock and coat. Thus, green dress and brown coat means bronzy-gold flower.

"That day, prophesied by some, when women will refuse to have babies, will never come," says Mrs. Walter Ferguson, woman's editorial writer. "No matter how far from the domesticated routine they may go, there will ever survive in the feminine heart this poignant ache for children. There is not and never will be a woman to whom a child is not her supreme creation, her supreme gift."

I do not agree at all. I think that Dame Nature, with an eye weather-peeled for her own interests, produces a fair number of women for some purposes of her own other than child-bearing. Dame Nature needs most of 'em for that, but not all! Hundreds and thousands of women would regard a child as a fearful calamity rather than "a great supreme treasure," and rightly so!

If some of you girls who are chairmen of club program committees are stewing about for some "meaty" books worth reviewing, and also entertaining enough to keep the sisterhood awake, assign some fair member to review Dr. Horace Carnecross's "Escape from the Primitive," and

YOUR FEET

It is a discouraging business talking about feet, for we always come back to one statement—wear the right sort of shoes and you'll never have any foot troubles. Every one of us knows that, but it is awfully hard to resist a particularly becoming pair of slippers. Unfortunately most shoes feel comfortable when they are tried on.

By all means wear dainty becoming shoes, but get them with heels as low and toes as round as possible and you will avoid many an ache. And if, in your moments of honesty you suspect that you really aren't wearing healthy shoes, make up for it by the extra good care you give your feet. Go to a foot doctor twice a year, whether you have corns or not, or if you can't do this, buy yourself a complete set of pedicuring instruments.

You want a nail clipper, which will cut the nails the right shape and allow the big toenails to be cut to an impinging V. You want pedicuring scissors, which are like manicuring scissors, but heavier, a piece of pumice stone to wear off callouses, and if you have steady nerves and a steady hand, you can add a corn knife. You had better go at least once to a foot doctor and learn how to treat your feet with these instruments.

Begin every home treatment by soaking the feet for 20 minutes in hot, slightly soapy water, rub off all loose skin with a rough towel, clean under the nails, clip them with the nail clippers, clip the cuticle smoothly around the nails, rub down the yellow callous spots with the pumice stone and then rub them with oil. If necessary, tie a little cotton over the oiled places to protect the stockings. Very carefully shave off the top layers of a corn, rub it with oil and twist a little lamb's wool over it to keep the shoe from irritating.

Jean C.—You can easily use the starch treatment several times a week for the blackheads. Remember to apply a cream or oil after using anything on the skin as drying as this starch treatment. If you do this you will not suffer any bad effects from it no matter how often you are compelled to take the treatments.

Doris E.—Never tamper with moles yourself as the consequences may be serious. If they are really disfiguring so you feel you must get rid of them, you should have the work done by a reliable doctor. Small moles are not disfiguring and may even be becoming because they make the skin appear clearer in contrast, as the old time beauty patch did long ago.

C. A. R.—If you arrange your hair so it is coiled above your head it will give length to your face. Avoid all fullness at the sides as this increases the appearance of width.

MYSTERIOUS DENIZIN OF THE BAG-WORM

By AUSTIN H. CLARK
Smithsonian Institution

All too familiar objects in the eastern part of the country are the cases of the common bag-worm (left) which you see hanging on many different kinds of trees and shrubs. But the insect that inhabits these is not generally known.

In the summer if you observe these cases carefully you will see some of them walking about, the movement being effected by the front end of a caterpillar (second figure) which projects from them.

All caterpillars are the young either of moths or butterflies. Here is shown the young of a singularly interesting moth. The male of this moth has wings and looks, in general, much like any other moth. But in this case Nature decided that the ladies' place is strictly in the home and so deprived the females of any way of getting out of it.

The females (smaller type

Bag-Worms and Moth

shown), are wingless and legless worm-like things that remain within the bags incapable of leaving them. There they lay their eggs and die; and in the spring the little caterpillars make their way out of the bags and spread themselves over the plant.

THE TINYMITES
BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When morning came, each Tiny-mite woke suddenly, with quite a fright. They all heard a funny noise, outside upon the ground. "Say, what was that?" a wee voice said, and Copsy raised his haughty head, and whispered, "Don't be frightened, I will take a look around."

And, while the rest held very still, he peered out o'er the window sill, to see just what had broken up the stillness of the air. Though he was brave, like cops should be, he soon was scared quite terribly, "cause right below the birdhouse was a fuzzy grizzly bear.

"We're in for trouble," Copsy cried, "we all had better stay inside, but that's a shame because, I fear, will interfere with play." Then Copsy said, with hearty glee, "Just leave that husky bear to me. When I was in the circus I trained grizzlies every day."

Of course it didn't take him long to show them all he wasn't wrong, for when he reached the ground the bear just licked his little hand. "Come on, you Tinymites," he cried. "Who wants to take a thrilling ride?" And then there was a scramble, for they all thought 'twould be grand.

So Copsy held the grizzly bear 'till all the Tinymites were there. "Now climb upon his back," said he. And what a funny sight!

They all joined in the merry race to try and find themselves a place. Then Copsy let the bear go, as he shouted, "Hold on tight!"

One mighty bound and Mister Bear was racing through the open air. It seemed that he would surely throw his riders to the ground. But such a thing could not occur, 'cause they were hanging to his fur, and all of them were laughing when the grizzly turned around.

"A Great Medicine"

"SEVERAL of my friends are now using Cardui just because of my recommendation, and because they saw with their own eyes what a great difference it made in my state of health," says Mrs. L. A. Stewart, 405 N. Ohio Ave., Etowah, Tenn. "I shall continue to tell my friends about it, for I think it is a great medicine."

"Two years ago I was in a very serious condition. I was in bed twelve weeks. Cardui got me on the road to recovery and I took it for several months until my strength completely returned. It built me up in a wonderful way."

"I had fallen off until I was just a shadow of myself, but after I had taken Cardui for a few weeks my appetite became so good that I could eat anything, and I gained in weight rapidly. Everyone remarked how well I was looking. Now occasionally I take a few doses of Cardui at certain times and I find it a great help."

Thousands of other women have recommended Cardui to their friends, knowing its merit from their own experience.

Cardui is a mild, harmless, purely vegetable, medicinal tonic.

Sold by druggists everywhere.

THE CHANCE OF A LIFETIME

A truly "golden" opportunity, identical to the best of earlier California days, is offered by a sound and conservative "California Corporation" in the sale of one-half of a tract of 90,000 acres for quicker development of one of the most fertile valleys in all America, barring none, not even the rich soil of Imperial Valley.

This tract is located in one of the few truly frostless, semi-tropical regions known in the U. S. It is traversed by the main line of the So. Pac. R. R., running 48 trains daily, the national "Ocean to Ocean" Highway, traveled by 400 autos a day and a State Road between two prosperous, fast-growing cities. It is bordered by a lively river.

Plans call for the completion of an Irrigation System in about two years, independent of the great "Boulder Canyon Dam" project which otherwise would furnish irrigation.

The opening price for the sale of this wonderful land, in parcels of 10 acres up, has been set at less than $19.00 per acre; terms 1-3 cash, balance in 10 monthly payments. Taxes are only 12c per acre and no assessments of any kind for 5 years. Upon completion of the irrigation system (in 2 years)—we believe this land will be considered cheap at $500.00 the acre, as adjacent tracts with water return up to $1000 per acre the year from earliest fruits and vegetables produced anywhere. Present purchasers are not asked to live on or to improve the land but to profit by the enormous increase in value bound to come. Loss is simply out of the question.

Full details to those who mean business. Idlers please refrain.

MAN IS BURIED BEFORE HE BEGINS TO GROW UP

Notredamus, noted psychic, was buried alive at 1:31 p. m., today, on the vacant lot just north of the Grand Central market, after casting himself into a stupor, during which period his body became extremely rigid and his breathing was becoming slower and slower.

The "death" occurred after Dr. Cushman, Martell and Woodruff had examined Notredamus, found his pulse at 136 and his body in perfectly normal condition.

Notredamus was scheduled to be removed from his grave at 3:31 p. m., two hours elapsing between the time he was buried and the time of his actual interment.

A crowd of several thousand persons witnessed the stunt and was convinced that there was no trickery or fakery connected with the burial of Notredamus.

The hole was nearly six feet deep and was dug before the eyes of the crowd. The box was a plain burial box and was supplied by the Winbigler Mission funeral home.

Officials of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, who accepted the challenge of the psychic to allow himself to be buried and exist for two hours under ground, assisted the doctors in examining the psychic.

A number of prominent motion picture and stage folk, of Los Angeles, witnessed the performance.

As the time came for Notredamus to be buried, he cast himself into the deep sleep, the "suspension of animation" started. His pulse was found to be racing at a rate of 176 beats a minute.

Notredamus will appear tonight at a meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, at Ketter's cafe, if he lives. He is scheduled to appear later in the week at the West Coast-Walker theater in a special act.

Two Are Injured, One Is Arrested As Crash Result

F. Garcia, of Chino, suffered a broken collar bone, his brother, Paul Garcia, has a deep cut on his head, and Jose Dominguez, also of Chino, is being held by Brea officers on a charge of driving while intoxicated, following an accident, last night, two miles north of Brea, in Brea canyon.

According to reports, the touring car being operated by Dominguez was driven off the road and plunged 25 feet. Passing motorists carried the men to the Fullerton General Hospital.

Dominguez disappeared from the hospital and was found in Fullerton a short time later, by officers.

GENERAL HEAD OF OF Y. M. C. A. WILL BE GINER GUEST

Reading the Who's Who of men and women prominent in the country's religious, educational and social service life is the list of reservations on file at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. for the dinner to be given at 6:30 tonight in the association building in honor of W. W. Gethman, general secretary of the world committee of the Y. M. C. A., with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

O. H. Barry, president of the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., and member of the national council of the organization, will preside over the meeting. No program has been arranged for the occasion so as to give the entire time to the speaker of the evening. His address will deal with present conditions in Europe.

For the last six years Gethman has been the national secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in the new republic of Czechoslovakia. In that capacity he developed a Y. M. C. A. association on American lines which became the topic of discussion among European church workers.

Gethman hails from Iowa. He holds degrees from Northwestern University and the Barrett Biblical Institute. After teaching several years, Gethman entered the Y. M. C. A. service, becoming secretary of the Illinois state committee in 1914. Two years later he served as camp secretary at Brownsville, Texas, and then accepted the position of general secretary at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

When America entered the war, he joined the overseas division of the Y. M. C. A. and, for two years, was in France, first as war work secretary at Chaumont and later as secretary in charge of the activities and field administration in the Paris headquarters.

LOAN BUSINESS BIG PROBLEM. SLOW GROWTH SALES TRAGEDY

The Santa Ana building and loan associations—the Home Mutual, of which O. M. Robbins is secretary-manager, and the Santa Ana, in which Cotton Mather holds a like position—are justly proud of the part the Santa Ana institutions had in the wonderful building and loan association growth shown by the annual report of E. A. Falch, state building and loan commissioner, just issued.

This report shows that the greatest rise in building and loan history was the period which ended June 30, 1926. "During that time," the reports sets forth, "the assets increased over 50 millions, or more than the entire assets of the associations in 1920 or any of the 55 years prior thereto. During this time, too, more associations were licensed than during any previous year, 26 corporations qualifying for charters, making the total at the close of the year 189, or 99 more than in 1920."

The total assets of the associations, based upon the "call" reports of the associations, on June 30, were $210,879,622.10, or $702,711 more than was reported by the associations the previous year.

The number of shareholders and investors increased from 156,383 to 223,440, or an increase of 67,057, as compared with 39,999 the previous year. These shareholders and investors are composed of 135,559 male and 87,881 females. The average investment per person is $774.34.

The report sets forth that there are 30 counties without associations and that one county, Monterey, was added during the last year. The associations are located in 85 cities of the state, an increase of nine cities over last year.

The cities having building and loan associations with total assets in excess of $1,000,000, are given in the following order: Los Angeles, San Jose, Long Beach, San Francisco, Stockton, Pomona, Santa Barbara, Oakland, Pasadena, San Bernardino, Palo Alto, Alameda, Whittier, Anaheim, Santa Paula, Orange, Riverside, Bakersfield, Santa Monica, Glendale, Fresno.

Five cities entered the million dollar class during the last year.

The popularity of building and loan association loans among borrowers is attested by the increase in the number of borrowers and loans. There are 65,552 borrowers, an increase of 14,941 over 1925. During the last year 11,759 building loans were made, an increase of 2991 over the last year. New real estate loans made numbered 27,904, an increase of 9308.

The book value of real estate owned by associations is given in the report as $2,737,400.81, an increase of 48 per cent. Of this amount $1,296,709.43 is invested by 27 associations in property acquired for office buildings.

Falch makes the statement in his report that, advanced during the last year, California, during the last year, advanced from eighth to seventh place as an association state. He adds:

"Instead of being seventh, California should be at least third or fourth on the list. If the present high ideals are adhered to and associations continue to do business along lines of safety, giving strict obedience to their laws, rules and regulations, it will not be many years until California will reach that place."

Adams, a member of the Blue Wing club and a witness for the defense, finished his testimony this morning. The defense then rested and the state summoned two rebuttal witnesses, Wahlberg and Raymond Ellis, of the agricultural extension division of California.

Dispute Defense Contentious

The testimony of these witnesses was intended to dispute the contention of the defense that the flooding of its lands is beneficial to the soil. It is, it is moved, alkaline. That removes the use of the club's artesian water from the designation of waste, it is held.

"Leaching" of the soil is the only recognized and recommended method of removing alkali. That, he said, consists of washing the alkali down from the top and draining the water off from underneath. The method of allowing water to stand for several months on the surface of the land, as is charged against the shooting club, not only is not an economical method but would get rid of very little alkali, they said.

Claim Alkali Washed Out

The defense, however, has stuck throughout its case to the contention that the flooding of its lands is beneficial to the soil. It is, it is moved, alkaline. That removes the use of the club's artesian water from the designation of waste, it is held.

LOAN BUSINESS BIG PROBLEM. SLOW GROWTH SALES TRAGEDY

Declaring that 50 per cent of the crimes being committed in Southern California today are performed with the use of stolen automobiles and adding that the big problem of today is that of properly training children, Sheriff William Traeger, of Los Angeles county, addressed more than 100 men of the Men's Community Bible class yesterday morning.

The meeting was held in the West Coast-Walker theater.

Among those present were many city and county officials, including Chief of Police Claude Rogers and several city police officers and Sheriff Sam Jernigan, and several deputy sheriffs. Sheriff Jernigan introduced the speaker.

"This is an age of specialty," Sheriff Traeger said. "Every man has found it necessary to specialize in some particular line of commercial activity and the fields have become so large that no one man can handle any one line of endeavor. It is just the same in crime. Specialists in crime have banded together in order that they might get the most out of their criminal life."

"Checks today are almost the only medium of exchange and it is surprising that the business man does not lose more in accepting checks. My office is making a close study of checks, check writing, ink and everything pertaining to the writing of checks, in order to determine, without fail, whether or not they are bogus."

Youth in Age of Crime

"Crime prevention resolves itself to one point. The youth of today is finding itself in an age of crime. The parents have been counting on the schools and the peace officers to keep their children out of the way of crime and to build character. Character can only be built in the love and affection of the home. We should be greatly and seriously concerned in the character building of our children. After all, the big problem before us today is our boys and girls."

The meeting yesterday was one of the largest held this year by the Bible class, said W. B. Martin, president.

TESTIMONY IN GUN CLUB CASE IS COMPLETED

Final testimony was submitted today in the case of the Blue Wing Shooting club, charged with waste of water, after seven days of the trial, which is one of the longest in the history of the Santa Ana justice court.

Attorneys were ready to commence their arguments to the jury, after H. E. Wahlberg, county farm advisor, had left the witness stand, the last rebuttal witness called by the prosecution. District Attorney A. P. Nelson and Deputy D. G. Wetlin expected to address the jury for the state while the defense counsel, L. A. West and George P. Adams, were expected to sum up for the defense.

Adams, a member of the Blue Wing club and a witness for the defense, finished his testimony this morning. The defense then rested and the state summoned two rebuttal witnesses, Wahlberg and Raymond Ellis, of the agricultural extension division of California.

Coach Oliver Thinks Local Aggregation Has Chance
To Conquer Jackrabbits

After watching Long Beach win something of a doubtful 7 to 0 victory over Hollywood last week while his own charges came to life and showed improved football to overwhelm the Hollywood second team, Coach "Tex" Oliver is going to do all the dire and dread things to his light brigade that the alleged critics think.

Oliver scouted the Jackrabbits, leaving his own team under the weather eye of "Tubby" Crawford, and while he admits that Long Beach has a quantity of power he maintains that they are far from unbeatable.

Santa Ana meets Long Beach this coming Saturday, traveling to the seaside hamlet for its first set-off of the Coast Preparatory league season.

Guy Harvey

Virtually all of Oliver's cripples, laid low in the debacle at Manual Arts or in scrimmages before and after that affair, will be back in the fold this week and it is reasonable to presume that most of the aches and pains will be gone by Saturday, allowing Oliver to put on the field what he considers his strongest eleven players.

"Venus" Harvey, fullback, will be one of the veterans back but Harvey will have to work hard this week to show he is the man Oliver should start in the line crunching job. Bob Belding has shown an ability to hit opposing lines low and hard. He is much faster than Harvey and backs up the line just as well.

Ralph Selway, Captain Dean Miller and two or three other of the injured are rounding into shape again and will be ready to step out against Long Beach if Oliver calls on them.

TROJAN QUARTER

Don ("Greedy") Williams, former Santa Ana high school star, seems to have solved the quarter-back problem for Coach Howard Jones at the University of Southern California. Williams has been the starting signal-screamer in all of the Trojan contests this year and probably will get the call against California and Stanford late this month. Williams played halfback on Poly's Southern California champions in 1921 and quarter here in 1923.

DON WILLIAMS
SOLVES U. S. C.
GRID PROBLEM

Will Don Williams of Santa Ana be the "find" of the season at the University of Southern California? Every year out of the obscurity of the substitute ranks comes at least one player to make his name as a gridiron player great at Troy. Last season it was Morley Drury, who as a sophomore made All-Pacific Coast honors with his sensational work.

Now comes chunky, 170-pound "Greedy" Williams to make his bid for fame as quarterback of the Southern California eleven. Although this is Williams' first year on the Trojan varsity, he has already won the regular signal-calling job ahead of such stars as Morton Kaer and Howard Elliott. He may start against California and Stanford this month.

Coming from Santa Ana high school where he was a prep star and a member of the 1921 Southern California championship team here, Williams played on the frosh team in 1924 as regular quarterback. Last season he was ineligible because he had not put in a full freshman year. In spring practice, however, he attracted so much attention with his work at the signal-calling post that Coach Howard said: "There is the man that will be my quarterback for 1926."

Williams is undoubtedly the best field-general that has graced a Trojan eleven since Chet Dohley handed in his mole skins. Not only is he a wise field director, but he is a crack forward passer, and an able ball carrier as well as a fearless safety man.

Southern California has a tough schedule, and not a little of the brunt of the battle falls on the quarterback under the Howard Jones system, but it appears as if the black-haired Santa Ana will make good. If Williams lives up to expectation this year, Southern California is fixed at the quarterback position for two more years, for Williams is only a sophomore now.

WHISTLE TWICE SAVES S. A.
COLLEGIANS IN 0-0 FRACAS
WITH SOUTHWESTERN ELEVEN

Defeat was staved on two occasions by the Santa Ana junior college grid team in its game with Southwestern university here Saturday when the referee's whistle ended play.

A stonewall defense was put up by Coach Graham Harris' Santa Ana eleven with the result that the game ended in a scoreless tie although the Bisons of Southwestern outplayed the Santa Ana collegians. If Santa Ana is to offer any threat to the strong Pasadena team in the first game of the Southern California junior college conference here next Saturday, a more aggressive attack will have to be developed.

The Santa Ana gridders played with "fast company" for on the Southwestern team was "Cy" Walton, all conference backfield man with the University of California, Southern Branch, last year. Santa Ana's showing against him was creditable in halting marches for the goal.

Walton had grabbed a pair of passes as the half drew to a close that placed the ball on the Santa Ana six yard line. Before the Bisons could go over, the whistle was blown that ended the half.

S. A. Goal Threatened

A similar circumstance played as fate into the hands of the Santa Ana at the end of the game. The visiting team, chiefly through the performance of Walton, brought the ball within three yards of the goal and Santa Ana held, taking the ball on downs. Langley pointed to safety but the Bisons, not to be denied, directed another march to the goal and were on the seven yard line when the game was called.

Santa Ana showed that it lacked the offensive punch of Arthur Clapper, fullback, who is out with injuries.

Santa Ana had two chances to grasp victory. In the second quarter, a pass was thrown to Lon McIntire that he missed. Had he snugged it under his arm, he could have raced 40 yards to goal with only the safety man to sidestep.

Again in the third quarter, a punt was blocked by Stewart, Santa Ana tackle, which he recovered on the Bisons' yard line. Gains were made by Langley, Smith and Edwards but the locals were penalized and forced to put.

Biens Outplay Locals

Southwestern made eight first downs as against one, made on a penalty, by Santa Ana.

"Pete" Twist and Captain James Smith carried the ball for several of the gains recorded by the locals. Jack Langley punted on a par with the Bisons. On the line, a good account was made by Montezuma Ramirez, Santa Ana tackle, who recovered a fumble at one time when the Southwestern team was driving for a goal. After the first half, the Santa Ana linemen, Rogers, McIntire, Poe and Sipherd halted the dangerous Walton quite effectively.

Coach Harris has scheduled a practice match for his team against the prep squad of Huntington Beach here tomorrow as the last game before plunging into the continental tour.

The game will begin at 3 o'clock.

S. A. BOWLERS
PREPARING FOR BUSIEST YEAR

That Santa Ana is in for its busiest and most successful season on record here was evidenced today by the announcement of Harry Gaspar and Walde Anderson, proprietors of the Bowlers' Inn, that 20 five-man teams will enter a race for House league championship this winter.

Two divisions are planned, more experienced mineralite chuckers competing in an 835 class circuit and the junior rollers entering a 150 team total loop.

Schroder's pharmacy, Jerome and Hendrie Service station, Fullerton Five, Costa Mesa, West Coast-Walker theater, Mile Shoe company, Chick's Inn, Santa Ana Furniture company, Register Publishing company and the Certified Car market already are enrolled in the 835 league.

Kinslow's Machine shop, O. A. Hiley Inc., Excelsior Creamery company, Peerless Plating company, Realtors of Santa Ana, Placentia Merchants and the Santa Ana Plumbers are entered in the Junior league.

Several more squads are expected to make entry before the races begin next Monday night, October 18.

Traveling league bowlers enter the second week of their campaign tonight. Rankin's Ladies go against a woman's quintette from Hollywood and the Tiernan Typewriter company meets the Redondo grill on the local pathways. The Laguna Chocolate five go to Redondo.

Other matches for the week follow: Wednesday—Olds Six vs. Cinderella Boot shop at Santa Ana; Livsey's Sporting Goods at Tivoli alleys, Los Angeles, Thursday—Floor Construction company vs. Globe Ice Cream company at Dayvener alleys; Friday—Pillor's Auto livery vs. Certified Car market at Santa Ana.

BILLY
GOT CARDINALS MIXED

Here is a story that was told me during my last trip to Chicago. It regards it as worth repeating:

Two gents of color were standing on the curb of Michigan avenue during one of the many processions that featured the Eucharistic Congress. One didn't know what it was all about, but fortunately his more intelligent friend did.

After a brief explanation, the ignorant person asked who certain men in the procession were and was informed they were the bishops. Later the bishops were pointed out to him.

"Who is them men following the bishops?" he asked.

"Them is the cardinals," replied the more intellectual one.

"They is, sure enough? Well, then, don't fail to point that fellow Rogers Hornsby out to me. I shure have wanted to see him for some time."

BIG TRIO SLIPS

It is beginning to look as if the American league in a few short years will lose some of the stars who have done much to keep the prestige of the organization at the high water mark.

I have in mind three of the playing managers, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins.

While the trio could go on indefinitely in the managerial role, their days as regulars on the ball field are fast drawing to a close.

There is a certain glamor that surrounds the star player that is missing in the manager, no matter how successful he may be. The deeds of the star on the field dwarf the strategy of the manager on the bench.

Cobb has smashed every possible record that was within his grasp a year back, and I believe is now content to be numbered among the illustrious stars who have made the game what it is. There is no argument about him being the greatest player of all time.

Loss of leg power is the thing that will cause the three veterans finally to retire. Of Cobb, Speaker and Collins, Speaker is perhaps in the best shape to continue for a few years more.

Should they care to continue in a managerial role, all three could go on indefinitely provided they are able to turn out winners. That is one thing the baseball public demands of a manager.

AN UNWISE POLICY

Discussing managers brings to mind the thought as to whether

MARK KOENIG,
MEUSEL GOATS
OF BIG SERIES

BY PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—To one young the world series of 1926 spelled tragedy. The fates selected him to be the "goat" in the triumph of the St. Louis Cardinals over the New York Yankees.

Mark Koenig, the Yankee shortstop, playing his first year in the major league, muffed up an easy catch at a double play in the fourth inning of the seventh and final game yesterday, which the Cardinals won, 3 to 2, and paved the way for the defeat of his teammates.

Some of the fans properly may believe that Bob Meusel's miss of a fly ball later in the inning was more disastrous than Koenig's error, but Meusel is an easy going ball player while Koenig feels things deeply. It is his conviction that he alone was responsible for the Cards' victory.

After the game Koenig sat apart from his fellows, his head in his hands. There were no tears. He was simply numb. Occasionally someone would tell him not to take it so hard, but the youthful shortstop didn't even hear. No doubt he was chafing the play over and over in his mind—telling himself what might have happened if only—

The Cardinals were told before the series opened that Koenig was the weak point in the Yankee defense. Accordingly, they "rode" him.

Whenever the shortstop was retired at first, which was often, the St. Louis players cried, "Hey, Gutless," and other epithets as he walked back to the bench.

The "riding" told. During the series he made four errors out of a total of 38 chances for a fielding average of .895.

Meusel had less excuse. He cannot be affected by the taunts of his opponents and he is a veteran to whom a series encounter is just one more ball game.

As a matter of fact, it was Meusel's pride in his wonderful arm which led to the error that meant a Cardinal victory. The ball that bounced out of his glove belonged to Earl Combs, the center fielder. But Meusel had faith in his ability to keep the runners on their bases after the catch, while Combs was willing to give the chance to the left fielder.

National League Champions
Outgame New York Yanks
To End Dramatic Classic

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—After seven hectic and rather sloppily played games of the 1926 world's series, the St. Louis Cardinals have replaced the Pittsburgh Pirates as the baseball champions of the world.

The Cardinals, champions of the National league, faced the New York Yanks in the final games of the series with a handicap against them. They needed one game to tie and two games to win the series.

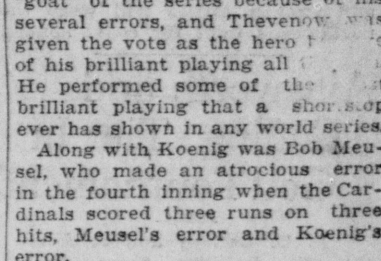

With great courage, the Cardinals out-gamed the American league champions and won the championship, taking the seventh game yesterday by a score of 3 to 2.

Cards Outplay Opponents

It had been said that the Yanks, because they had had more world series experience, would have more courage than the Cards. But in a final game of a record breaking series, the Cards outplayed the experienced Yankees and won a ball game and a championship. It meant an additional $2,000 to each St. Louis player not to crumble under the strain.

On the record of this world series, there will be heroes and goats. He performed some of the most brilliant playing that a shortstop ever has shown in any world series.

Along with Koenig was Bob Meusel, who made an atrocious error in the fourth inning when the Cardinals scored three runs on three hits. Meusel's error and Koenig's error.

Meusel Gambles, Loses

But Meusel must be credited for a gambling play in which he lost. Combs, the center fielder of the Yanks, is noted to the major leagues for a poor throwing arm and Meusel is recognized as having the greatest throwing arm in baseball.

In a hectic inning, where the Cards were breaking up the baseball game, Meusel saw a chance to end a rally with a good throw. On O'Farrell's hard drive to center field he ran clear over in front of Combs and yelled that he would get the ball so that he could make a throw for a double play. Combs stepped back and allowed Meusel to take the catch, but they collided, momentarily, and Meusel dropped the ball.

In the seventh game Ruth had four bases on balls which was a record in a world series game.

Many Dramatic Moments

The final game of the series had many dramatic moments, and the most dramatic came in the seventh inning when Jess Haines had his pitching hand split and had to be removed from the box. The entire St. Louis team gathered for a conference in mid-field and deliberated so long that Umpire Hildebrand walked out and told them that they must play ball.

The Cardinals talked for another moment and then Hornsby, the young manager of the Cardinals, waved several times to the "bull pen."

The crowd of 38,000, recognizing the intensity of the situation, stood on their feet and emitted a tremendous roar when Grover Cleveland Alexander sauntered from the bull pen down through left field to the box.

Alexander walked in with the bases filled and with two down and with $50,000 depending on every pitch to his team more, figuring that as the difference between the winners and losers share of the series $2000 each.

Old Alex had to face Tony Lazzari, one of the longest hitters in the game.

CARDINALS WIN WORLD SERIES FROM YANKEES

ters of the Yanks ball club, who had been fanned twice by Haines, but who was a dangerous hitter. Old Alex fanned him, finishing the inning without yielding a run.

Alex Works on Babe

In the eighth inning Alexander retired the side in order and in the ninth inning he came into another dramatic moment of the game.

He retired Combs and Koenig on two fine stops and throws by Bell to first and then the Babe came up. After working hard on Ruth he failed to get the Babe on a bad ball and walked him.

The Yanks called for a hit and run play with Meusel at the bat. Ruth dashed for second when Meusel failed to hit and he was thrown out sliding for second by a perfect throw from O'Farrell to Hornsby.

And the game ended.

The Babe earned his share of laurels, with a new world series record by hitting four home runs and because of the phenomenal catch that he made of Bob O'Farrell's drive in the second inning of the final game.

From a point of attendance the last two games in New York were a disappointment but in spite of that the series, because of the tremendous enthusiasm in St. Louis, established a new record for receipts and attendance.

BO SMILES

Bo McMillin, grid star, smiles. And with reason. The little Geneva College (Pa.) football team, coached by McMillan, has just defeated the great Harvard—just like the little Centre College team, with Bo as a player, trimmed the Crimson a few years back.

BEARS' DEFEAT IS COAST GRID UPSET

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 11.—Although it came not altogether as a surprise, California's 26 to 7 defeat by St. Mary's was the big upset for coast gridirons Saturday. Stanford and U. S. C. may consider themselves fortunate in not having to meet the Saints this season.

Stanford's 7 to 3 victory over Olympic club, which came in the last three minutes of play, was a disappointment.

California has already defeated the Olympians, 82 to 0. Stanford seem's lost without Ernie Nevers.

The low score to which Washington State held U. S. C., 16 to 7, was a surprise in conference circles. Washington's impressive 23 to 9 victory over Oregon at Portland added prestige to the Huskies. It now appears that Washington and Oregon Aggies will wage the northwest's fight for coast honors.

Laguna Beach will meet Joe Rodgers' Huntington Beach team at Huntington Beach next Sunday. The box score:

Hornsby Rushes Home to Attend Delayed Funeral

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Rogers Hornsby was hurrying toward St. Louis today—not to meet an adoring populace, but to join his wife and proceed to Austin, Texas, to attend the funeral of his mother.

"Stay and win," was his mother's last words to Rogers. And the young manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, who had telegraphed his mother the result of every game during the season, stayed and won.

All through the battle for the world championship, Hornsby was "a good soldier." He scarcely equalled the brilliant playing for which he is famous, but when it was over and the last Yankee was tagged out, he had carried out his mother's dying wish.

Harry Wills 7-5 Betting Favorite

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Harry Wills was only a slight favorite in the betting today on his fight with Jack Sharkey at Elbetta field tomorrow. The Negro heavyweight's backers were giving 7 to 5 but it was predicted even money would prevail. The fight will be 15 rounds to a decision.

Billy Evans Says

It is good policy to make a star player a manager when he is at the top of the game.

During the past season I discussed that subject with several American league club owners, and all are about convinced that it is an unwise policy.

When Cobb, Speaker and Collins were made managers they still were great, but really had passed the peak of their game. That is the proper spot to make a manager out of an outstanding star.

Carrying the burden of being a star and playing at top speed is enough of a task without burdening the athlete in question with managerial troubles.

Making the brilliant Sisler manager of the St. Louis Browns, just after he recovered from an eye affliction, probably was a mistake. Certainly it didn't help his playing or aid him in his comeback.

Sisler, relieved of managerial woes, probably would return soon to the form that made him baseball's greatest first sacker.

L. B. OIL MEN LEASE YORBA LINDA RANCH

YORBA LINDA, Oct. 11.—A lease has been signed by Crampton and Dunlap, Long Beach oil operators, to drill on the J. B. Hayton ranch on Highland avenue, south of Buena Vista street, the first rig to be started at once. No bonus was asked, the oil men agreeing to start a well within 30 days if materials can be moved here in that time.

The property is planted to persimmons and some years ago, when called the Davis property, was drilled on by General Petroleum. The hole was abandoned when tools were lost in it. The property adjoins the Ong well on the north, on which is located a pumping well of the General.

The Herndon and Hunter test well on the C. C. Wagner ranch, at Alta Vista street and Yorba Linda boulevard, west of town, is drilling ahead with the hole over 5700 feet deep.

Showings of oil and sand were brought up at the 3200 foot level, and also around 4600 feet, but not enough to warrant a production test. Oil men are not overly optimistic regarding the outcome of this well, believing it to be north of the deep sand structure.

The St. Helens Petroleum corporation, an oil firm which has held a lease on Gaudin avenue west of Valencia avenue for several years, is now drilling a deep sand well there. The well is called Anderson No. 5, being located just north of Gaudin avenue, and west of the Anaheim Union Water company's ditch.

Good progress is being made and the hole is now 1400 feet deep. The well is an offset to the Chick-san Oil company's Robertson No. 1, completed some time ago by that firm, and now pumping 180 barrels of clean oil per day. For a time water caused trouble, but a good shut off has been obtained by the Chick-san company. The St. Helens firm has a number of wells at Montebello and if the No. 5 is a success, four other wells will be drilled on the lease.

EDUCATION OF LAGUNA CHURCH DRAWS THROG

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 11.—Unfurled with impressive ceremonies from a 50-foot steel flag pole in the Italian garden of the Episcopal chapel of St. Francis-by-the-Sea, yesterday morning, Old Glory will now fly daily from St. Francis hill, one of the most conspicuous knolls in the heart of Laguna Beach. It was a distinguished company that witnessed the ritual. The Rev. Percy Wise Clarkson, rector of the chapel, had invited the Right Reverend Bishop Stevens, head of the diocese, to be present and give the blessing. Wilbur K. Getty, of Santa Ana, vice commander of the state American Legion, and F. C. Slater, retiring post commander at Orange and a number of visiting clergymen, participated.

The Rev. Mr. Clarkson was master of ceremonies. The procession formed at 8:30 o'clock. The Orange County American Legion band and drum corp of 25 pieces assisted. Mr. Clarkson first introduced Mr. Getty, who gave a brief history of the flag, which was born June 14, 1777. Mr. Getty said that it is now the third oldest flag in the world.

The speaker suggested the organization of an American Legion post, in Laguna Beach.

The buglers sounded the call to the colors as it was unfurled by Mrs. Foster Elliott, wife of the president of the Laguna Beach Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Elliott was too ill to take part in the ceremony. The flag was made ready for holding by Mr. Getty and F. C. Slater. Slung underneath it was a church flag during the famous charge of the Anzacs at Gallipoli, when less than 500 returned out of 5000 men in two regiments.

The company pledged allegiance to the flag and it was blessed by the bishop. Then followed the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner." F. A. Hantebarger of the band, a world war hero, sounded the assembly on the bugle that sounded the charge at Gallipoli for the Rev. Mr. Clarkson's regiment.

Following the ceremonies, mass was celebrated by the bishop. During the service, three exquisite windows, depicting scenes in the life of St. Francis, were unveiled. The church nave and chancel were dedicated as were many gifts to the church and altar, including stations on the cross, altar of the Virgin, hand, cross, eucharistic throne, altar of St. Joseph, bishop's throne, roof, cross, eucharistic and vesper missal and stand, sacred vessels and sanctuary light, censer and sanctus bell, processional flag and lights, seats given by 15 separate donors, the fonts, the alms basins and presentation plate and vestments. The windows show St. Francis instituting the third order, St. Francis' betrothal to Lady poverty, institution by St. Francis of the midnight mass and the Christ-mas crib in the forest. The first mass was celebrated by the bishop. St. Francis, the second will be dedicated entirely to visitors and friends, the third is sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Thurston, of Laguna Beach. The windows are valued at $2000.

After the mass, a small statue of St. Francis was unveiled. At 11 a. m., there was the celebration of the eucharist by Canon Revillon and the unveiling and blessing of three chancel windows. The rose window was given by Miss Ann B. Mason, of Laguna Beach, and the "Light of World and Christ Exalted" window by Miss Grace Watkinson. The Rev. Mr. Clarkson and the lay reader, Francis Smith, assisted.

At 7:30 p. m., the Wright memorial tower was dedicated, and cloister, fountain and garden were blessed by the bishop. Father Moore and Father Clarkson chanted the Litany. This was followed by a feast of the Litany at which Bishop Stevens officiated and preached the sermon. His assistant, Canon Revillon, and F. Smith, The Rev. D. Hollister was the pastor and the benediction was given by the bishop.

NEW SYNCICATE TAKES 20 YEAR LEASE ON HISTORIC BLUE LIGHT SILVER MINE

ANAHEIM, Oct. 11.—Leasing of the historic Blue Light silver mine in Silverado canyon to a co-partnership composed of three nationally known mining experts, a well-known Chicago capitalist and a prominent Los Angeles attorney, who agree to develop and operate the holdings at full capacity for the next 20 years, was announced this morning by Charles Eygabroad, president of the Blue Light Silver Mining company.

A. W. Stickney, mining engineer of San Mateo; T. J. Jones, mining expert in charge of gold mines in Shasta county; W. D. Madge, mining expert for the Tilton Consolidated Mines company at Salt Lake City; Judge G. C. Craig, multimillionaire of Chicago, and George W. Plumb, of Overton, Lyman and Plumb, Los Angeles law firm, are announced as the lessees.

Contract for the leasing of the mine calls for the greatest development program ever attempted on the holdings.

Guaranteeing the starting of mining operations 30 days after the signing of the lease, the new operators have advanced a cash forfeit deposit of $5,000 and are to place $50,000 more in a bank, the latter to be spent at the rate of not less than $5000 per month in improving the mine equipment and carrying on preliminary development operations, Mr. Eygabroad says.

Work is to commence at once upon the mill which is to be expanded and placed in shape to handle a minimum of 50 tons of ore per day and the operators agree to have the mine working at this capacity within a period of four months.

The new operators further agree to work not less than 200 shifts per month throughout the entire 20 year period of the lease and to do at least 1500 feet of new development work each year. Thirty men are expected to be placed upon the payroll at the outset.

The property involved comprises 14 mining claims with an aggregate area of 280 acres, all located on the "strike" of the claim. Ore out-croppings are in evidence for a distance of approximately 2000 feet across the apex of the holdings and development work during the past six years has revealed that the ore runs deep into the earth for a distance that engineers have estimated as several thousand feet, Mr. Eygabroad declared.

The Blue Light silver mine has a history rich in romance that dates back more than 50 years, when first operations in these holdings were made by a French mining syndicate. The holdings then passed into other hands and were worked indifferently until about six years ago, when a group of prominent Orange county capitalists secured control. The present mill was constructed at that time and development work continued with more success up to the present time.

Prominent among the present stockholders of the owning company are C. Stanley Chapman, Fullerton capitalist; Sam Collins, prominent Fullerton attorney; J. M. Hollingshead and J. J. Dwyer, Anaheim ranchers; Will Wagner, Placentia rancher; E. A. Wilmsen, Anaheim rancher, and Charles Eygabroad, rancher and real estate dealer of Anaheim. Mr. Eygabroad is president of the company and Mr. Collins is secretary.

40 ATTRACTED TO FAMILY REUNION

LAGUNA BEACH, Oct. 11.—A remarkable family reunion was held yesterday at the Arch Beach summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Witherow and their daughter. The occasion was the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Northcross of Greenville, Miss., with Mr. Northcross's mother, Mrs. William Northcross, at Santa Monica.

Members of the three Northcross families that settled in Orange in the '70s and early '80s made up the group that gathered at the Witherow home.

Of the first generation in California two were present, Mrs. James Northcross, of Orange, and Mrs. William Northcross, of Santa Monica. With second and third generations and numerous "in-laws" and cousins more than 40 were present.

BOYS OUTNUMBER GIRLS

It is not only interesting but significant that the boys outnumber the girls in Santa Ana high school. If memory serves aright, 15 years ago it was the usual thing in every graduating class of the local high school for the class to be three-fifths girls. Gradually a change has taken place. Today we find the senior class with 130 boys and 122 girls. In the high school, the total enrollment shows 442 boys and 428 girls.

The significance of the figures is that there is a growing realization among parents that boys should complete their high school education. It was but a few years ago that a goodly percentage of boys quit school at the end of the ninth grade and went to work, and at the end of each school year a few boys dropped out. Boys of that age frequently are anxious to be making money and, finding school irksome, are inclined to seek opportunities to set schooling aside. If parents listen to persuasions, boys today, we have no doubt, would be dropping out in percentages somewhat in keeping with the incidents of 15 or 20 years ago.

Ambitious boys today, too, have a better opportunity to earn money after school and on Saturdays and in vacations than used to be the case. A good hustler can earn his way, and a surprising number of them are earning their way through Santa Ana high school and Santa Ana junior college.

COLLEGE AND SUCCESS

Whether it is worth while to send the young people to college is a question bobbing up over and over again. Will it really do them any good? Do they not waste their time and money dreadfully and get nothing out of it in proportion to what they and their parents put in? An answer is published by an insurance company which has made a survey of "Who's Who in America" with this in mind. Out of the same number in each group the numbers who will attain distinction, they say, are as follows:

24 uneducated men;
24 men with common school education;
622 men with high school education;
5,728 men with college education.
Men with little or no education can succeed, it is true, but in nothing like the same proportions as the men with more training.

Without college training, the insurance company says, the chances of the whole group are 25 per cent of attaining success. With college training the chances are 90 per cent.

Wasting time, therefore, would seem to be a matter of opinion. The college boys may appear to be wasting a little in their youthful years, but they clearly do not waste so much in the long run.

The man who habitually abuses his opportunities, in college or out, does not become successful. It is this minority of habitual wasters and ne'er-do-wells that make up the small percentage of failures. But taking them as they come, most boys and girls get out of college enough from every point of view to make the four years spent there eminently worth while.

THE TWO-DAY WEEK END

Many say that in adopting the five-day working week, Henry Ford made a virtue of necessity. He had not been operating on a six-day basis for several months. Apparently his plants can supply the demand for his product without working on Saturday.

How long will it be until the same thing is true of American industry in general?

Our national capacity for industrial production has grown tremendously, and is still growing. Labor-saving machinery makes the human factor less and less by comparison. Or to look at the situation from the other end, every man, by the use of the mechanical facilities given him, can produce more and more per day.

Will there be general over-production unless the working week is shortened? That depends on whether consumption grows along with production—whether people want the things they make as fast as they make them.

Perhaps it boils down to a question of thrift. Society as a whole can go ahead producing all it is capable of, and thus have more and more goods to divide and more wealth to pile up. Or society can renounce the accumulation of further wealth in favor of greater leisure and ease. Or society can adopt a middle course, continuing to "get ahead" moderately, while taking things a little easier.

AERIAL TRAIL BLAZING

Among pioneers of all time, the name of Alan J. Cobham may rank high. He has made notable trails in the air.

Cobham has just returned from his great flight to Australia, a trifle of some 28,000 miles, without mishap. Before that he flew from England to Cape Town and back and to India and back, and while in India he soared over the Himalayas. He has never had an accident. Perhaps he should stop now.

More remarkable even than this pilot's record is the performance of his airplane. He used the same plane as on his former trips, and it has now covered 125,000 miles. It is a mighty good automobile that will do as well. His engine, fitted to the plane before the Capetown flight, has recovered about two-thirds of that distance. And they used to say that an airplane engine was good for less than 100 hours' running.

PROHIBITION AND PROSPERITY

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, whose pithy comments on public issues are always breaking into print, is credited with saying that prohibition, as it stands today, is worth a billion dollars a year to the country.

Well, why not? There is far less liquor consumed than in the days of the licensed saloon, despite propaganda to the contrary. If over-enthusiastic wets would take a sober turn through the extensive dry regions of the country, and the dry parts of their own regions, they would see things in better perspective.

Granted, the liquor is worse and costs more. But there is far less drunk. How much less would probably seem incredible to any honest wet if the precise figures were presented, whether by a statistical gentleman like Prof. Fisher or by an ordinary intelligent citizen rambling around without bias and recording his general impressions.

So important is this widely ignored fact that we venture to make a suggestion which may be hooted at by deluded wet partisans, but will not necessarily be invalidated by the hooting:

The extensive prosperity prevailing in this country, evident to all the world, may be due more to prohibition than to any other factor, resulting from the immense saving of money formerly spent for liquor, and from the increased efficiency of sober citizens.

We can, along with discussions of the moral effects of prohibition, devote more attention to its economic effects.

Hard to Stop Aliens at Border

San Francisco Chronicle

Examination of border conditions at close range convinces Harry E. Hull, commissioner of immigration of the Department of Agriculture, that our present immigration restriction policy is in a great measure being defeated by the widespread smuggling of aliens across the Canadian and Mexican lines.

Practically the entire extent of contiguous foreign territory, he finds, is filled with aliens seeking admission into the country in disregard of the law. Every possible device is used to circumvent the vigilance of the boundary patrols. Aliens go on foot for weeks to find some inaccessible part of the line that is not properly guarded. Properly to enforce the restrictions would take a whole army of inspectors, and Mr. Hull complains that the force now available is wholly inadequate to cover the entire border as it should be covered.

The policy of limiting the number of immigrants and improving the quality of newcomers has been working effectively so far as its operation is related to the regular ports of entry. But the ease with which the border is run may largely nullify these good results.

It has been suggested that registration of aliens and deportation of those unlawfully in this country would put a stop to this form of bootlegging. Bills with this purpose in view were introduced at the last session of congress. But in many quarters such measures are severely condemned as czaristic, as establishing a national system of espionage and as an unwarranted affront to those aliens properly resident in this country.

The only remedy against the conditions Commissioner Hull complains of, then, may be the relief he suggests—enlarge the border patrols. But it will take a mighty force to do the job properly.

Crippled Child's Special Call

San Francisco Chronicle

The movement to co-ordinate all public and private activities for the restoration and education of the crippled child is an effort to make these agencies more effective instruments in the welfare work they are engaged in. Sympathy and a desire to help flow naturally toward the crippled child, but the problem of employing these sentiments to the best advantage of those who need help is a problem to be studied.

There are many agencies looking after the normal dependent children, but comparatively few looking after the crippled dependent child. Yet it has been estimated that there are 18,000 crippled children in California, 30 per cent of whom are in families financially unable to provide corrective medical care or the special educational facilities made necessary by their physical condition.

The Rotarians have shown a praiseworthy interest in these little shut-ins and have established in this city the Sunshine School. Other groups have given similar thought and care to the problem.

Now a movement is under way to draw all these interested groups together into a state society, affiliated with the International Society for Crippled Children. A conference looking to this end will open this morning at the Fairmont, to last two days.

The wish will be general that it will succeed well in its purposes.

Let's Save Our Heads

Oakland Tribune

Airplanes flew over the crowds gathered in the Sequi-Centennial stadium while the Tunney-Dempsey fight was in progress, and it is said that the department of commerce "will take steps to prohibit 'acrobat and other inexcusable flying over city, town or other large assemblages.'"

It is time! If stunt flying over crowds continues to be permitted, soon, perhaps, wherever two or three people are together the inevitable airplane will appear doing its mono-dance in the sky.

Everybody knows now that airplanes can loop the loop, turn flip-flops and wiggle-waggle. Further demonstration is not necessary.

Stringent regulations should be put in force to the end that all of us, individually and collectively, shall to the end preserve unbroken crowns.

Health Topics

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Editor of Journal of American Medical Association

INFANT MORTALITY RATE MUST BE LOWERED
Although general mortality rates have dropped steadily for many years, infant mortality rates have not always kept pace.

The reasons for this discrepancy are varied. The infant mortality rate may, indeed, be taken as an index of the general sanitary condition and health education qualification of the community concerned. Emphasis is made on the latter point particularly because education of the mother before birth of the child is one of the most important factors in assuring its successful birth and life beyond the first year.

Last year, according to figures compiled and published by the American Child Health association, cities in the birth registration area in this country had a rate of 72.6 deaths of infants per thousand births, including all babies dying before reaching one year of age.

Two villages with populations under 25,000—Stonington, Conn., and Winona, Minn.—had the lowest records, 32 per thousand.

New York had the lowest rate of the 10 largest cities in the country with 64 per thousand, but Seattle continued to maintain its supremacy among all large cities in the birth registration area, with a rate of 45. This enviable position has been held by Seattle for the last four years.

In southern cities infant mortality rates are greatly increased because of the number of colored children, since infant deaths among Negroes, particularly in the first year of life, are more frequent than among the white population.

The infant mortality records claimed by any community are those of New Zealand. There many factors have combined to produce a rate constantly around 40.

Among the factors concerned are constant emphasis on breast feeding of babies and widespread education of the public by highly trained public health nurses who are thoroughly conversant with the factors involved in controlling infant mortality.

No doubt the dissemination of the population and the climatic conditions play some part, but unquestionably constant emphasis directed along special lines as mentioned, must be inevitably the means of saving the lives of many babies.

Modern Youth Gains Support

Kansas City Star

The debate on the question of the tendency of modern youth is inclining more and more to the side of the boys and girls. In view of the accumulated evidence the fair minded person may feel that youth, after all, is not materially changed but simply is manifesting itself in new ways, due to the new conditions under which it lives.

Statistics collected by a government agency, the children's bureau of the department of labor, have indicated, although they are incomplete, that delinquency in recent years has not been increasing but, on the contrary, actually has declined. Heads of colleges and high schools are almost unanimous in their defense of the modern boy and girl, while ministers and other religious leaders strongly incline to the belief that youth, at heart, is as sound as ever.

A single statement on the subject, from an official of the Methodist church, is typical of several views recently collected from religious, educational and other types of leaders:

"We hear a great deal of the revolt of youth. The only revolt of youth itself is against archaic dogma, which has held back the progress of the world. That is a revolt to be hailed with joy and gladness. We can say that, so far as Methodist young people are concerned, they were never before so animated by serious purposes and determination to serve the age. Our schools are crowded and our institutes are packed with thousands of young people who give up their vacation periods for study and who are pledging themselves in increasing numbers to part-time or full-time service to country, to humanity and to God."

That kind of statement does not settle the question but it is reassuring. There remains a problem of youth, as every parent or teacher knows. There always has been such a problem. But that intelligent attention to all phases of the subject, to the changed economic and social conditions under which youth makes its way and a readiness to aid youth with sympathy and understanding may point to solution seems entirely reasonable.

Worth While Verse

The quality of mercy is not strain'd.
It droppeth as the gentle rain from heaven
Upon the place beneath: it is twice bless'd;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes:
'Tis mightiest in the mightiest; it becomes
The throned monarch better than his crown:
His scepter shows the force of temporal power,
The attribute to awe and majesty,
Wherein doth sit the dread and fear of kings.
It is an attribute to God himself,
And earthly power doth then show like God's
When mercy seasons justice. Therefore, Jew,
Though justice be thy plea, consider this,
That in the course of justice none of us
Should see salvation: we do pray for mercy,
And that same prayer doth teach us all to render
The deeds of mercy. I have spoken thus much
To mitigate the justice of thy plea,
Which if you follow, this strict court of Venice
Must needs give sentence 'gainst the merchant there.

—Portia's speech from Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice," Act IV, Scene 1.

Measures on the Ballot

Under this heading, the Register presents information and arguments concerning various measures that are to be voted upon in the November elections. Views expressed here may or may not be the views of the Register.

FOR PROPOSITION NO. 22

S. R. Black, secretary of the reforestation constitutional amendment committee, 614 Call building, San Francisco, has issued the following:

Proposition No. 22—One out of every ten wage earners in California is employed by the lumber industry, the third largest industry in the state. Timberland pays over half of all taxes in many mountain counties. How long will this condition hold true? The answer depends upon how long the forests last. At the present rate of cut the forests will last 100 years or more, but it is quite probable that the rate of cut will increase. However, the forests can last forever if given a fair chance to regrow, after being logged or burned over. Timber can be raised as a crop just as are farm crops. In fact timber must be considered a crop if we are to have a perpetual supply. As a crop, timber growing should be given the same consideration now given other crops in the state.

Growing crops are exempt from taxation in California. The land is annually taxed on a value proportionate to its market value. The crop raised is only taxed when held in storage on the first Monday of March. Proposition No. 22 on the November ballot places reforestation lands on essentially the same basis as farm lands. The land would be annually taxed at its fair value. The young growing trees would not be taxed till mature, as determined by a public board provided in the amendment. As soon as the trees become mature, which amounts to storage, they would be taxed annually in addition to the annual tax upon the land. The proposed amendment to the constitution is fair and just to the counties in which the land lies. It should be passed to make possible the growing of second crops of timber by private capital.

It takes from 50 to 100 years to grow a crop of timber. If reforestation trees are not treated fairly, it will be impractical for private capital to attempt to raise them, because 50 to 100 annual taxes upon the land, plus 50 to 100 annual taxes upon the growing crop, plus 50 to 100 years' cost of fire control and administration, will probably more than equal the value of the crop grown. If private capital cannot carry on large scale reforestation, the lands, once cut, or severely burned over, will in time undoubtedly revert to the state or be sold to the federal government as has happened in Michigan and other Lake states. The result of such procedure means bankruptcy for the mountain counties, just as northern Michigan counties have become bankrupt. There remain insufficient assessable values to carry the load of taxes thrown upon them when timberland passed out of private ownership.

Exemption of young forest trees from taxation as proposed in Proposition No. 22 means in the long run more revenue for the timberland industries, more timber in the state and a perpetual lumber industry in California. It is essential that Proposition No. 22 be passed. Vote yes.

A VICIOUS MEASURE

"Proposition No. 6 on the November ballot to legalize race track gambling brings Tia Juana into the heart of California," according to Dr. Thomas Filben, Executive Secretary of the Committee Against Race Track Gambling. "This is an imminent danger of bringing back to California race track gambling with the embezzlement, suicide and crime that follow in its wake."

"If this measure passes, the return of horse race betting will attract to California the criminal element of the nation. The future affects of its adoption will jam our jails, penitentiaries and almshouses, demoralize and debauch men and women, and rob children of their heritage of a decent home."

"We have suffered enough from gambling exploiters, race track fixers, white slavers and dope smugglers that flock through California to Tia Juana. This vicious measure puts the state into the gambling business under the guise of passing an unwanted share of the profits to the agricultural and veterans' boards."

"Leaders of the veterans have already shown their resentment against this unauthorized use of the veterans' movement to put across a crooked bill."

BUTTER VS. OLEOMARGARINE
Riverside Press: Proposition No. 3 on the November ballot is not a spectacular measure, but it is one regarding which a hot fight is being waged up and down the state. This referendum bill proposes to regulate the manufacture and sale of oleomargarine; and in addition to the annual license it requires dealers in the butter substitute to pay a tax of two cents on every pound of the product which they sell.

The California Dairy Council is waging an energetic campaign in behalf of the proposal, while the Anti-Food-Tax association, presumably sponsored by oleomargarine manufacturers, is conducting a lively opposition attack.

The Dairy Council points out in its publicity that the measure does not attempt to stop the manufacture of oleomargarine but that it does require that the product be advertised and sold as such and not convey the suggestion that it is in any sense a dairy product.

The small license fee, the Dairy Council asserts, is not new, even higher fees being required of manufacturers and handlers of oleomargarine in certain eastern states.

According to the Anti-Food Tax association, Proposition No. 3 for the first time in the history of California would impose a tax on a food product. "This tax means a direct increase in everybody's cost of living," the association declares, "for whether or not you use margarine the tax hits you, because margarine is the anchor which keeps down the price of butter. If you do not want taxation of food products vote 'no' on Proposition No. 3."

Unquestionably both sides of this controversy have logical arguments. The greatest stumbling block to the adoption of the measure, the Enterprise believes, is the two cent tax. Many voters are certain to oppose a tax on food products, fearing it will prove an opening wedge on others, thus eventually resulting in a wholesale increase in living costs.

As to the merit of this contention every voter will have to decide for himself.

STRONG SUPPORT FOR FEDERAL PLAN

Redlands Facts: In a controversy which has brought the dangerous issue of sectionalism in California to the surface, nothing is more striking than the number of southern chambers of commerce which have refused to follow the lead of the Los Angeles chamber of commerce, and are out in the open favoring Amendment No. 23 on the November ballot. This was remarked by Homer R. Spence, of Oakland, who is directing the campaign in favor of No. 23, the Federal Plan Reapportionment of the state legislature. The measure is being bitterly fought by the Los Angeles organization and political interests there anxious to smother the balance of the state through their own scheme to reapportion.

"The powerful Los Angeles chamber of commerce has small influence among its nearest neighbors in fighting what they deem the best interests of the entire state," said Spence. "The Orange county and Santa Ana chambers of commerce have flatly broken with Los Angeles and favor No. 23. Redlands and Pomona, near neighbors of the southern city, have passed resolutions favoring what Los Angeles opposes for selfish reasons. Riverside and San Bernardino chambers have lined up behind No. 23 after listening to what their neighbors had to say to the contrary. We are confident San Diego will follow us, as has Ventura county. In the tier farther north, the San Luis Obispo county chamber, with Fresno county, Hanford, Lindsay and Porterville have all disregarded the Los Angeles example in favor of what they deem the general interest of the state."

Spence went on to say, "We believe we are fighting for the interest of the entire state, including Los Angeles itself. In advocating No. 23 as the basis for future representation in the California legislature. That so many of Los Angeles' neighbors take our view is highly encouraging to us, however it may cause the sparks to fly in Los Angeles. We commend their courage, for it takes courage to take such a stand under such circumstances."

NO. 11 SHOULD BE REJECTED

Sacramento Bee: One of the proposals at the November election which should be rejected by the people is Assembly Constitutional Amendment 27, which is No. 11 on the ballot.

Under this measure private secondary schools would be given the same exemption from taxation as the public schools now enjoy.

This is neither wise nor good public policy.

There are too many such exemptions today. They should be curtailed, rather than increased.

If the proponents of this measure succeed in getting its approval this year, what is to prevent asking that the same privilege be extended to private primary schools next year?

And from that it is just a short step to exemption of all private schools no matter what subject is taught.

The public schools of California are open to all. There is no necessity of students being sent to these private institutions.

But if parents, for one reason or another, prefer to educate their children in private schools, then the tuition charged should be sufficient for such educational institution to pay taxes the same as any other private concern.

The argument that $654,000 is saved the state because 3000 students are educated at private expense is fallacious, because it does not take into account that the per capita expense is obtained by dividing the total number of students into the total expense, most of which is overhead of various kinds. Each additional pupil who goes to any kind of school does not increase the expense $210, or half that sum.

The Bee can see no merit in this proposal.

It should be voted down.
